MAYOR SIGNS POLICE BILL HE PROTESTED

Locke Announces He Approved Measure Same Day He Asked Council To Meet.

DENIES 'DUCKING' MEETING

Says He Was Unable To Leave Other Meeting In Time For Council Session.

Mayor William J. Locke today announced that he had signed the police ordinance which he termed shortly after its introduction, an attempt to "embarrass the administration."

The mayor said he signed the ordinance which calls for a shorter work week for policemen, Monday after he had been informed that council would pass it over his veto. He said that he learned of this from a member of council, whom he would not name.

Mayor Locke signed the ordinance the same day that he requested William J. Beer, jr., clerk of council, to call a special council meeting to discuss the ordinance. It was believed that an ordinance requesting additional policemen would be introduced at the meeting.

Mayor Locke said that he had intended to make a statement to council saying that he had already signed the ordinance and then ask that legislation for the provision for four new policemen be drafted. He said he was unable to do this because he could not leave the dinner and stage appearance of National Legion Commander Milo J. Warner who lectured here on the same night of the meeting.

The ordinance provides city police with every sixth instead of eighth day off duty. "We will do the best we can with what we have left," said the mayor.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates declared that he had no comment to make. He previously estimated that the shorter work week would result in the loss in man-power of 536 man-days a year or the loss of one and a half men.

The mayor said that it was unfair to say he had "ducked" the special meeting. He said that he had tried repeatedly to get away from the Legion meeting to present his statement to council.

Mayor Locke said that he signed the ordinance because council passed it unanimously knowing that he had vetoed it last year. "Naturally, the situation is embarrassing," said the mayor, "but, after all, council makes the laws."

He signed the ordinance, the mayor explained, because he did not wish to buck council. He stated that he had been informed of its disposition in the matter and had decided to abandon any plea for policemen before signing.

'Although many persons indicate that the additional patrolmen will be given later this year," said the mayor, "I have little confidence in such statements."

Locke claimed that council has continually opposed many of his efforts and that this had made it hard for him to carry out his duties the way he would like.

Asked if he was considering another term in the face of the conditions he described, Mayor Locke said that he was undecided. He said that he would not be able to make any statement regarding his possible candidacy until early next month. He pointed out that improving business conditions might make it more advisable to devote more time to business.

U. S. Takes Over Defense of Greenland

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—United States today agreed to take over the defense of Greenland.

In a step which constitutes the virtual establishment of an American protectorate over the island, the U. S. government signed an agreement with the King of Denmark to take over the defense of that Danish possession, the state department announced.

Simultaneously, the White House, in issuing a formal statement by President Roosevelt revealed that the United States made this agreement "after it received information that German planes have been flying over Greenland."

The agreement was signed at the state department yesterday by Secretary of State Cordell Hull on behalf of the United States and by Danish Minister Henrik de Kauffmann on behalf of the King of Denmark.

Under its terms, the United States is granted the right to establish air bases on Greenland for the defense of that territory as well as for the defense of the American continent.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that while the Danish government at present is powerless to act in protection of its territory in the western hemisphere "we propose to make sure that when the German invasion of Denmark has ended, Greenland will remain a Danish colony."

"Meanwhile, we earnestly hope for the quick liberation of Denmark from her present invaders," the president said.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early, in an informal explanation, declared that "this agreement puts Greenland in the same category as Canada and all of the islands off the American coast—it will be defended if attacked."

An official state department announcement disclosing this important move said:

"The agreement recognizes that as a result of the present European war there is danger that Greenland may be converted into a point of aggression against nations of the

Expect U. S. To Acquire Dane Ships

FDR Request to Congress Would Start Action for 39 Vessels.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—American acquisition of 39 Danish cargo ships was expected to be asked of congress by President Roosevelt today, presumably as a move toward strengthening Britain's Atlantic convoys.

Speedy congressional authorization was anticipated by the administration. Once it is given, Mr. Roosevelt may charter or purchase the vessels from the controlling Danish interests which have had them in American ports since Germany moved into Denmark a year ago.

Informed persons believed that soon thereafter the chief executive either would make the ships available to the British to transport American war supplies across the Atlantic or else would turn over to England a similar amount of American ships.

The latter method was considered a possibility because if the vessels were chartered it might not be legally possible to place them in service under a foreign flag. The Danish ships aggregate more than 300,000 tons.

Other efforts to put more than 10 other vessels now lying idle in American ports back on the high seas were expected within the next few weeks.

Among these are 28 Italian and two German ships which, like the

GARNER, MAYBE?

Senate Wonders If He'll Fill Sheppard Place in Interim.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Members of the senate Texas delegation today speculated over whether former Vice President Garner would be offered an ad interim appointment in the senate following the death of Sen. Sheppard (D. Tex.) but expresed doubt that Garner would accept the offer if made.

Under Texas law, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, within the next 10 days, must call a special election to be held within 60 to 90 days and appoint a temporary successor to Sheppard in the interim.

Those considered as possibilities to enter the race for the regular senate seat included the governor himself, Reps. Dies, Johnson ,and Patman.

Calls on Ford Company, Union To Accept Three-Point Settlement Plan.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)— President Roosevelt today called in officials of the United States Steel corporation for a conference obviously designed to head off the threatened stoppage of work by 200,000 employes in the corporation's steel mills.

DETROIT —(AP)— Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner called on the Ford Motor company and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today to accept "without further delay" a three-point proposal for settling the eight-day old strike at the company's Rouge plant.

He issued a statement in which he said that in the interests of national defense and preservation of law and order he was submitting a "practical and fair" plan with the knowledge that it does not satisfy the desires of either the company or union.

The plan:

City Observes Good Friday With Two Services Tomorrow

Mansfield will observe Good Friday tomorrow with special religious services at two churches at noon.

The services will be held at the First Lutheran church and at the First Presbyterian church starting at 12:05 p. m.

Business institutions throughout the city have been urged by the Retail Merchants association to close their establishments between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. to allow employes time to attend religious services.

Meanwhile, at the fourth of Union Holy week services held at the First Lutheran church today, Rev. Glen F. Lewis, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church, preached on the topic, "The Meaning of the Cross for Us Today."

Said Rev. Lewis, "It is easy and dangerous to forget the significance of the Crucifixion of Christ over 2,000 year ago. We hear the story of the Passion but we regard it too frequently as an event which happened long ago."

"But that event is meaningful in our lives today," Rev. Lewis continued. "For when we survey the wondrous cross in the light of today's events it can be a comfort for us, because God cares for the pain and suffering of the world.

"That tragedy can be a reproach, for we measure ourselves in the light of the cross and dis-

CASUALTIES REPORTED

Former Palace of Wilhelm II at Potsdam Damaged In Heavy Raid.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — The gay State opera house on Unter Den Linden, Berlin's downtown Broadway, was viewed as a complete loss today by firemen as a result of an attack on the German capital last night by British air raiders.

A dense cloud of smoke hung over the center of the city this morning, attracting hundreds of spectators, but the scene was roped off and hundreds of yards of big fire hoses criss-crossed the broad avenue.

It still was not established how many incendiaries had hit the stately opera house, which is one of Hitler's favorite theaters.

Bellevue Castle, the famous guest house in which foreign statesmen are entertained when visiting Berlin also was hit.

In Potsdam, the facade of the so-called new palace, one-time residence of Wilhelm II, was damaged, as well as some valuable art objects.

Heavy blows against Birmingham and the port of Newcastle as well as Ipswich and Southampton were claimed by the high command.

In the Nazi attack on British shipping the destruction of nine ships, totalling 49,000 tons, was claimed, while five other large ships and a destroyer were said to have been damaged.

The State opera house was burned out after a shower of incendiaries struck it. This morning a dense cloud of smoke hung over the center of the city, attracting hundreds of the curious. Fire hose criss-crossed Unter Den Linden and the area was roped off.

(The opera house is not to be confused with the Kroll opera house where the Reichstag now meets.)

Four coaches overturned, reports said, while a fifth car left the rails but did not overturn. Two cars and the locomotive remained on the tracks. A broken rail was blamed for the accident.

Reveal Moving Of Population From Istanbul

Announcement By Turkish Government Hints Expected Assault; Battle Of Balkans Nears Showdown as British Move Up Troops.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—A German military spokesman said that today Greek prisoners captured in Thrace numbered more than 80,000, but that the "final number will be much greater" since the count is not yet finished.

(By Associated Press)

Fears of an imminent German attack on Turkey, neutral ally of Great Britain, were seen today in a Turkish government announcement that it had been "found advisable" to remove a considerable part of the population of Istanbul.

The announcement followed only a few hours after the Rome radio broadcast a report that Germany's ace diplomat, Franz von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, had reiterated "the assurance that Germany has no intention of attacking Turkey."

Istanbul lies on the European side of the strategic Bosporus, link between the Dardanelles and the Black sea. It is less than 100 miles from German-occupied Bulgaria.

Nazi blitzkrieg forces have already slashed down through Thracian Greece alongside the Turkish frontier.

Greece's own struggle against the Germans took on a slightly brighter aspect as military quarters in Athens declared that her army remained intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with allied support."

Battalions of British flame-throwers, tanks and armored cars newly arrived from Africa were reported rushing north today from Piraeus, the port of Athens, for a decisive battle with Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg legions.

As the 5-day-old battle of the Balkans neared a showdown, unconfirmed rumors circulated in Budapest that Belgrade, the bomb-scarred capital of Yugoslavia, had been entered by Nazi troops.

Advices reaching Bern, Switzerland, one of the few remaining outlets of uncensored news in war-ridden Europe, said British transports and supply ships were bringing fresh reinforcements into southern Greek ports.

German press dispatches indicated the British expeditionary force—estimated at 300,000 men—was massed in the vicinity of Mount Olympus, southwest of Salonika, near the Aegean sea coast.

Other reports said the British were completing a new defense line stretching across the Greek peninsula from a point south of Salonika to the Albian port of Chimara, on the Adriatic sea.

While news of land fighting in Greece was sparse, Athens dispatches said British RAF bombers heavily strafed German motor transport columns and troop concentrations and bombed bridges at Axioupolis, 30 miles northwest of Salonika.

Many casualties were inflicted, the British middle east command announced.

The Budapest newspaper 8 Orai Ujsag (literally "8 O'clock News") said Nazi troops racing across Yugoslavia had established contact with Italian forces in Albania.

DESTROYED: Greeks Burn and Blast Salonika on Leaving

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS—With torch and explosives the Greeks destroyed everything of military value in the port of Salonika before abandoning the city to German forces, Emmanuel Spanakis, Associated Press correspondent, declared on his arrival here today.

Spanakis told of the early bombless German aerial offensive against Salonika. Apparently they were trying to overawe the defenders without causing any destruction.

"German planes were over Salonika continually," Spanakis said. "We had six or seven alarms a day and, although no bombs were dropped, the people spent most of the days in air raid shelters. Many even would not come out to eat.

"Salonikans learned for the first time that their city was doomed late Tuesday afternoon when a communique announced that the Germans had broken through the Yugoslav lines in the Vardar valley.

"Almost immediately, hospitals bundled their wounded into ambulances and left the city. Military authorities requisitioned of all kinds and every automobile to move military stores.

"Soldiers loaded equipment of every description on sailing vessels and steamers which left as dusk drew near.

"Demolition squads blew up cranes and other harbor facilities.

"A red glow spread over the waterfront as warehouse after warehouse was set afire to keep them from falling into Nazi hands.

"Our ship was the last to leave the blazing port and as we drew away we could see flames leaping up from the airport where hangars and benzine stocks were set afire.

"The flames threw into sharp relief the 900-year-old Byzantine fort on the mountain behind Salonika—a fort which protected the city from invasion 100 years ago.

Tears rolled from the eyes of many of those watching their city fade away into a glaring ball of red."

MISSING: Field Commander, Two Aides Possibly Captured

(By United Press)

CAIRO—Lieut. Gen. Sir Richard O'Connor, brilliant field commander of the army of the Nile's victorious thrust into Libya and top British officer in western Egypt, is missing and possibly a prisoner in German hands, the middle east command revealed today.

(The German high command reported today that five British generals and 2,000 British troops were captured in a battle at Mekili, south of Derna.)

O'Connor is not the only top flight British officer reported missing by the middle east command today.

The list also carries the names of Lieut. Gen. P. Neame and Maj. Gen. M. D. Gambier-Parry, two of O'Connor's chief aides.

Neame was the British commander in Palestine and Trans-Jordania and Gambier-Parry was the tank specialist of the hard-hitting British armored columns that cut across western Egypt and Libya all the way to Benghazi.

(The middle east command's communique indicated that at one blow the British may have lost their three ranking officers in Egypt. Lieut. Gen. Sir Henry Wilson Faitland, general commander of the Libyan offensive, now is in Greece commanding the expeditionary corps there. Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander of the whole middle eastern sector, is believed to be in Cairo.)

BOY OFFENDERS IN CALIFORNIA SENT TO RANCH

Experiment Under Way Two Years Rehabilitates Wayward Youths.

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Juvenile court and probation officials of San Francisco are confident they have found the best solution to date for the rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents in the maintenance of Log Cabin ranch.

The experiment has been under way for nearly two years. An average of 30 minor offenders at one time work out their "debt to society" on the ranch. From a total of 49, only one, after his return home, has relapsed and become a "repeater." All the others have been living happy, normal lives since.

The experiment was begun in 1939. With funds donated by a foundation, the city purchased a 240-acre ranch near Gualala in the northern part of the state, located in a woody region. The annual cost of operating the ranch has been about $20,000, including all salaries.

The ranch is supervised by Frank Kelley, who has five assistants, including a junior and senior high school instructor and a recreational director.

"The ranch has provided an ideal outlet for the energy of the boys there," Chief Probation Officer R B Miller declared. "Both their energy and thoughts are directed to constructive endeavors, and that gives them a financial interest in the success of their own rehabilitating endeavors.

"They perform regular ranch duties and the work of maintenance and the repair of property, and have their own plots of ground on which to raise vegetables.

"Through bookkeeping transactions, the boys may purchase young calves, sheep or pigs from the ranch, raise them and sell them to the ranch or on the market.

"The ranch pays them the prevailing market price for their stock, less the original price If the ranch buys the stock, it is slaughtered and served on the table."

A similar procedure applies to vegetable raising. If a boy is interested in truck gardening, he may buy plants or seed, raise a crop and sell it either on the market or to the ranch

"All of the boys return home," Miller declared, "in much better physical condition from the outdoor and active life they have led and with a keen interest in life and the possibilities of work It also keeps them from all association with undesirable characters through their rehabilitation period"

FORD READY TO PUT PLASTIC AUTOMOBILE TO ROAD TEST

DETROIT—(UP)—Henry Ford's plastic car may widen the field of agriculture to a point where, Ford believes, all vegetation eventually will be utilized by industry.

The revolutionary use of plastics for the superstructure of an automobile would require, for 1,000,000 cars, at least 170,000 tons of agricultural products and 50,000 tons of synthetic chemicals, Ford said Materials would include 100,000 bales of cotton, 500,000 bushels of wheat, 700,000 bushels of soybeans and 500,000 bushels of corn.

Upon the success of Ford's new venture hangs many hopes for fulfillment of his 'back-to-the-farm" philosophy which for years has expounded the virtues of living close to the soil. If agricultural product outlets can be broadened, Ford reasons, farming will become a more attractive vocation to youths.

Word in the Ford Chemical research and experimental laboratory convinces Ford that advances in the industrial conversion of farm products are immediately ahead.

"Enduring peace and the real prosperity of the nation can be insured only by finding new and better ways to use the soil, and that's what we are learning in our laboratory," Ford has declared.

The new car will have a body composed entirely of a plastic fiber with the exception of a tubular welded steel frame. Dies for the body panels have been ordered for road test models.

Robert A. Boyer, head of the research laboratory said the plastic sheets weigh one-half as much as steel sheets of the same size and would absorb a blow 10 times greater than steel without denting. Fenders can be broken but minor collisions which would dent a steel fender leave plastic fenders undamaged. The plastic, unlike steel, does not "take a set," Boyer explained.

Turn SOAP-MONEY into STOCKING-MONEY

LET SOAP SAVINGS PAY FOR NEW STOCKINGS

Here's a proved way to cut soap bills and have sparkling dishes with less work:

1. Dissolve 1 teaspoon Climalene in dishpan.
2. Add only ½ usual amount of soap (bar, flakes, or powder).
3. Dip glasses, wash silver and china.
4. Let pots and pans soak.

Feel how clean they are, see how they sparkle. Climalene dissolves grease, leaves no film, makes toweling easy. Saves money 3 times a day.

'Alaska Nellie' At 67 Returns To Northland

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—(U.P.)—Nellie Trosper Lawing, who has earned her living in Alaska the last 27 years by trapping and fishing, has gone back to Alaska after a visit with old friends here.

Mrs. Lawing, known in Alaska as "Alaska Nellie," was born in St. Joseph 67 years ago. Her father taught her to hunt and trap, but it was not until she was almost 40 that she decided to go to Alaska.

"I spent my first three months without seeing another human being," she said. "In the spring I went to town and sold my furs for $280."

In her second year she obtained a contract to furnish food to men who were building a government railroad in Alaska. She killed most of the game herself.

Make this Spry FULL FLAVOR Pie and hear the family cheer!

See how the tender, nut-sweet Spry-crust lets you get the FULL flavor of the spicy, delicate custard

When Mills start smiling at the compliments the Wonderful Cook receives for her custard pie, you'll know it's made with Spry shortening. For this custard pie has every "must" for a luscious smooth filling with a golden-brown crust. Instead of ordinary shortening, Spry gives a delicate flavor that lets the full flavor of the spicy custard come through. Tender, flaky, mouth-melting crust. Don't you want to try this LAVISH recipe?

Ordinary shortenings may give off-flavor crust that "smothers" the taste of the filling

Play safe and use pure Spry. Spry's not only pure but it stays fresh longer, too—keeps so creamy. Three big extra advantages in every Spry gives at Wood Grocers today for all your baking and frying. See the difference Spry makes in cakes and fried foods, too.

CHAPTER XXII

Karl spoke rapidly in German, then suddenly turned on his heel and walked away.

"Oh Paul!" Joan gasped. "Are you all right?"

"I'm fine," Paul said grimly. "Karl's just been trying to persuade me to join his little group. Both of us, for that matter. He thinks we'd be valuable to him in his spying business."

"But you are all right?" she repeated.

He glanced at her with a smile. "You sound almost as if you care."

"I do," Joan said. And suddenly she realized that she did care. That she cared terribly what happened to Paul O'Malley.

Five more days passed as the weather became increasingly uncomfortable.

"We're probably off the coast of Mexico," Paul said as he stood at the rail looking into the vast expanse of blue sky and water.

Joan did not reply. Her nerves were strung to the breaking point Where was Karl taking them, and for what purpose? But beneath her fear was another thought, which ran now like an undercurrent, sometimes sweet, often bitter. She was in love with Paul Really in love. She knew that it was real by its contrast with her feeling for Karl That had been only a girl's infatuation, but her love for Paul was rooted in the depth of her being. She probably would have loved him long ago if it had not been for Karl. But Paul did not seem to care for her He treated her with the same careless consideration and affections that he did his sister. He no doubt considered both of them fools for loving a man like Karl Miller. Joan could not blame him for that. He had seen her crying over Karl — those silly, disillusioned tears. She had even shed them upon his shoulder. Could she ever expect a man as fine as Paul to understand?

She pressed a handkerchief to her damp forehead. "It's so hot!"

"I'll bring you a chair," Paul said.

They sat silently under the shade of the canvas. The sun beat a glassy path over the smooth water. They had not touched land since they left San Francisco

Without turning his head, Paul said in a low voice, "I have something to tell you. Do you know which sailor is called Thomas?"

"I think so. The one who brings our meals."

"Right. It seems Karl has something on him, forced him into service on this ship by blackmail. He's promised to help us, when the time comes."

"What time?" Joan asked, feeling suddenly chilled in spite of the tropical sun.

"If everything goes as I expect, it should be within two or three days."

"You still don't know how Karl plans to get rid of those papers?"

"Submarine," Paul said briefly. "Thomas tells me we're to contact it within the next twenty-four hours."

* * *

Night. A new moon hung delicately in the sky trailed by a thousand stars which seemed abnormally brilliant and close.

"There's a ring around the moon," Paul observed. "We're going to have some bad weather."

"Anything would be better than this." Closing her eyes against the heat, Joan leaned her head against the chair.

When she felt a hand over hers, she started "Oh . . . Paul . . ." Color flooded her cheeks.

"Joan," he said simply, "don't you know I'm in love with you?"

Relief and joy flooded her heart. Fatigue fell like a mask from her young face

"I've been in love with you ever since the first day I saw you," Paul went on in his quiet voice "But there was Karl . . ."

"Oh darling, that wasn't real. I didn't love Karl. I just thought I did. You must believe that, Paul!"

"Of course I believe it, honey," he said "If I didn't, do you think I'd be telling you this. We O'Malleys are cagey people."

She smiled in the darkness.

"If we ever get out of this mess," Paul continued seriously, "will you marry me? It's not an easy life, you know, Joan. I'm gone a great deal and my job's dangerous I haven't much to offer"

"All I want," Joan assured him. "And Paul, we've got to get out of this now. There's so much to live for . . ."

He leaned over and kissed her. "We'll make it! You leave everything to me!"

"And Sybil?" Joan asked.

"I can't promise anything—or even explain. But if everything goes smoothly, I think we'll find her."

Tears filled her eyes. "I'm so grateful, Paul. Without you, I hate to think what would have happened to me."

Karl's voice broke through the night "What a romantic little scene this is. Too bad that you two must be separated."

Joan felt Paul's warning hand upon her arm but she burst out, "What do you mean?"

"I have been listening to your charming conversation," Karl told her. Joan could see the outline of his white suit in the darkness, the glow of his cigaret. "Since you seem so well informed about my plans, it might interest you to know that when that submarine leaves this ship, Paul will be on it."

"No! You can't do that!"

She could imagine his smile as he said, "I am really quite jealous, Joan, that you can transfer your affection so quickly. I would prefer that Paul is safely out of the way so that there is nothing to interfere with our friendship."

* * *

Paul's hands clinched on the arms of his chair, but he said nothing. Joan understood then that it was better to pacify Karl than to antagonize him further. She also knew that Karl had no personal interest in her, regardless of what he said. Whatever his evil purpose in transferring Paul to the submarine, it was not because he wished to be alone with her.

Her hand grasped Paul's tightly as Karl disappeared around the corner of the deck. "Is he bluffing?" she whispered.

"Of course he is," Paul replied calmly. "It would be easier to get rid of me entirely than to put me on another boat. I wouldn't be any asset to Karl on a submarine."

"But, Paul, if anything should happen now . . ."

"Nothing is going to happen," Paul told her reassuringly, but in spite of his words there was a note of anxiety in his voice

A cloud passed over the moon, obscuring its patch upon the water and a faint breeze stirred the warm air.

"Looks as if we have stormy weather ahead," Paul said in a low voice, and Joan, understanding, moved closer.

Joan slept little that night. She was thinking more seriously than ever. Her love for Paul had brought her new maturity, an awareness of life that she had never felt before. She realized now how terribly alone she had been. Since the death of her parents she had clung to Sybil But even her sister had been married and had other interests Paul was hers, and she was glad and proud His love gave her strength and peace, and the sweet feeling of belonging to someone. She had not felt that way about Karl. Karl had given her none of himself. He was just a romantic symbol upon which she fastened her foolish heart.

SELLING DROPS BUT BUYERS ARE STILL RETICENT

Market Shows Modest Gain In Some Quarters, Commodities Show Improvement.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Selling dried up in today's stock market but buyers still were timid.

Tacking on modest plus signs in early transactions were N. Y. Central, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, General Motors, Kennecott, Chrysler, Woolworth and Westinghouse.

Commodities acted better.

While the Balkan war news was far from bullish, brokers discovered a little bidding here and there on the theory the market had been "oversold" in the past few sessions. Boardrooms began to pay more attention to the domestic business scene which, on the whole, was interpreted as good.

Holders of steel shares derived a grain of comfort from the compilation of the American Iron and Steel Institute disclosing this industry operated at 100 per cent of capacity in March for the first time since May, 1929. Actual turn-out of 7,146,372 tons established a monthly record.

Those hoping for market stimulation from armament spending noted forecasts that this month's defense expenditures would come close to the $850,000,000 level.

LEGAL NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Trustees of Richland County Children's Home, addressed to Mrs. Harry V. Downs, Secretary of said Board of Trustees, Mansfield, Ohio, until twelve o'clock Noon, Wednesday, May 14, 1941, for General Construction, Plumbing-Heating and Electric Wiring Work in connection with an Addition to said Children's Home.

Plans and specifications are on file with the Secretary and may be secured, together with Bidding Forms, from the Architects, Althouse & Jones, Farmers Bank Building, Mansfield, Ohio.

Proposals to be publicly opened and read at a meeting of the Board of Trustees held immediately after the closing time for the receipt of bids in the office of the Board of Trustees, at the Children's Home in Mansfield.

Proposals shall be submitted on Bidding Forms provided, signed by the individual bidding or an officer of Company bidding and accompanied by a certified check, cash, or a bid bond in an amount equalling Five Per Cent (5%) of the total work bid upon and made out to the Secretary of the Board of Trustees and shall be filed with the Secretary not later than the closing date stated. Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bid for- Alterations in Richland County Children's Home."

The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Ever hear a baby smack its lips?

● Maybe not, exactly . . . but thousands of babies are chortling over their favorite Wilson's. It helps make them grow—healthy and happy.

Many hospitals and doctors say "Wilson's Milk" for baby feeding, because it is whole cow's milk homogenized with the cream left in—and nothing added. Only water is evaporated. It's irradiated with "sunshine" Vitamin D ultra-violet rays.

Babies thrive on Wilson's Milk—and it's so easy to prepare. Ask your grocer for Wilson's.

THEATERS

Comedy Continues.

Barbara Stanwyck continues her romp through "The Lady Eve" at the Ohio. Held over due to popular demand the picture gives Henry Fonda his first chance at comedy in the role of a young expert on snakes who succumbs to the merry wiles of a beautiful cardsharp. Part of the action is aboard ship and the fun is quickened by Eugene Pallette, Luis Alberni and Eric Blore. The production shows through Friday.

"Pliny" On Screen.

A high-pitched voice familiar to 20 million radio listeners every week is now heard in the screen version of "Scattergood Baines," playing at the Madison. It is that of Dick Trout who has portrayed the role of "Pliny Pickett" on the air every week day for the last five years. This is Trout's debut in films and according to Author Clarence Buddington Kelland, Trout is his exact conception of "Pliny." Guy Kibbee plays the title role of the small town philosopher and storekeeper and the cast includes Carol Hughes and John Archer. "Repent At Leisure," with Kent Taylor and Wendy Barrie is the second picture.

Historical Era.

A colorful but not widely exploited phase of American history, establishment of telegraphic communications between army posts of the western frontier, is pictured in "The Trail Blazers," opening at the Ritz Friday. Starring "The Three Mesquiteers," and featuring Bob Livingston, Bob Steel and Rufe Davis the film depicts the efforts of the men to bring communication in a section where it was greatly needed. Tom Chatterton and Pauline Moore are cast. "The Black Parrott," with William Lundigan is the co-attraction.

New Role Here.

"Hold That Woman," opening at the Park, Friday, adds a new word to the vocabulary of motion picture fans. It's "skip-tracer" and it means a bill-collector employed by a firm selling goods on the installment plan. James Dunn plays such a role in the current comedy and Frances Gifford is cast as his bride. The couple spend their honeymoon running down the stooge for jewel thieves amid all kinds of humorous complications. Three adventurers who clean up a town unaided are shown in "West of Pinto Basin," Film No. 2 with Ray Corrigan, John King and Max Terhune.

Sinister Drama.

Peter Lorre, exponent of sinister roles, wields a hand over paroled convicts in "Island of Doomed Men," showing Friday at the Majestic. Through subterfuge he brings the miserable band to his island in the tropics where he subjects them to all kinds of cruelty until a government agent arrives to uncover the activities. Robert Wilcox plays the agent. Rochelle Hudson has the only feminine role as Lorre's wife. "The Lone Rider Crosses Rio," with George Houston is showing on the same bill.

OUR BOOKKEEPER'S GOT THE BLUES

He's way down in the dumps—been that way for months—ever since he started working for us. Yes, our bookkeeper's all upset about the low prices and the high quality of our used cars. "You could make some dollars and cents out of used cars," he moans. "if you didn't give so much for so little."

But, we're not worried—for the simple reason that we don't try to make a profit on our used cars. We do make lots of friends and future buyers of new cars, gas, oil, anti-freeze and accessories from purchases of our used cars. And frankly, we make a profit on each new car we sell. We have to, to stay in business.

ROME OBSERVES HOLY THURSDAY

Bells of 420 Churches Ring Out In Commemoration of First Eucharist.

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—The bells of Rome's 420 churches sounded in reverberating chorus this morning as they have for hundreds of years in commemoration of Holy Thursday, the day upon which Christ instituted the Holy Eucharist

In the Sistine chapel Granito Cardinal Pignatelli di Belmonte, dean of the sacred College of Cardinals, whose 90th birthday was today celebrated mass in the presence of Pope Pius XII

At the end of the service the pontiff performed the traditional Holy Thursday ceremony of carrying the eucharist out of the Sistine chapel Borne on a small throne, flanked by nobles and Swiss guardsmen and followed by cardinals, Pope Pius led a procession to the Pauline chapel across the Sala Reggia.

Reverently he placed the chalice on the tabernacle where it will remain until tomorrow Good Friday The Sistine choir sang "Gloria In Excelsis" and the bells of St Peter's rang out

Then suddenly the choir and bells were hushed and Catholics here, as throughout the world, began the mournful observance of Christ's passion and death.

The Pope will deliver his Easter message Sunday at 1 p m (6 a m EST) and his words, in Italian, will be broadcast on short wavelengths of 31 06 and 19 84 meters

Woman 'Car Nurse' Makes Official Debut In West

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Believed to be the only woman "car nurse," or automobile trouble analyzer in San Francisco or the United States, Miss Ruth Snyder helps run a sizeable service department of a large motor dealer.

"You've got a loose valve," she will say as a motorist drives in to complain about his ailing car. Then, like other mechanics, she dives under the bood, checks various parts of the pounding motor, and returns with a dependable verdict.

Miss Snyder, small, sharp, effervescent, and with her hair parted in the middle, obtained her first job in Grant Pass, Ore., after graduating from a Missouri business school in 1928. She soon became the only woman specialist in car service.

She is credited with having started a follow-up check system, whereby dealers who have since adopted it as a standard procedure, keep their customers periodically warned.

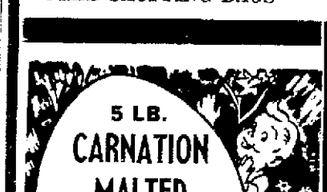
Italians Deny Ship Sabotage

U. S. marshals guard handcuffed members of the crew of the Italian freighter Santa Rosa as they board a bus for transportation to Gloucester, N. J., county jail. Thirty-four officers and men of three Italian ships seized in the Port of Philadelphia pleaded not guilty to sabotaging their vessels and were held in $185,000 total bail for further hearing.

$175 FOR BELL

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Alice Anderson paid $175 for a ramshackle, unused school building just so she could own the old, rusty wheel bell which still hung in the belfry.

She explained to bewildered city officials the reason for her interest in the bell. Back in the 1860s children of the pioneer ranchers of the Folsom and Mormon Island districts were summoned to school by the bell. She was one of them and has lived within hearing distance of the bell for the last 70 years.



Since the 17th Century any one born within sound of the bells of Bow Church in Cheapside, London, has been called a "Cockney."

TURKEY FEARS INVASION BY NAZI TROOPS

Part of Population Removed From Istanbul; British Draw Greek Lines.

denial, Hitler's high command still insisted that Greece's "lost army" of the east—trapped by the Germans' lightning thrust down the Vardar river valley to Salonika—was capitulating.

"Completely isolated Greek forces east of the Vardar are surrendering unconditionally," a Nazi communique asserted this morning.

German war correspondents said the break through the Greek Metaxas line was one of the war's hardest assignments for Nazi Panzer columns.

Stuka dive-bombers attacking for six hours, as well as artillery, played an important role, they said, but the decisive break came when flame-throwers, grenadiers and infantry stormed Greek defense bunkers.

The Greek high command denied an assertion by Hitler's high command that the trapped east wing of the Greek army had surrendered after the fall of Salonika.

"Despite the difficult position of our troops in eastern Macedonia, their resistance was unslackened and they maintained their lines," a communique said.

A Greek government spokesman acknowledged, however, that the "lost army" of the east was fighting without immediate hope of help from western Greece.

To the north, Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that Italian troops were pressing deeper into Yugoslavia in a drive to join Nazi columns slicing across Yugoslavia from the east.

German mechanized forces were reported last night to have reached Tetovo, 23 miles west of captured Skoplje and only 15 miles from effecting a junction with the Italians near the Yugoslavian-Albanian frontier.

From distant Moscow, meanwhile, came a cryptic declaration by Red Star, organ of the Soviet army, asserting that the Russian-Yugoslav friendship pact signed just before the outbreak of the Balkan conflict was "all the more valuable under the new conditions because the Soviet union always fulfills its international pledges."

Soviet Army Organ Re-Affirms Pact

MOSCOW —(AP)— Red Star, organ of the Red army, said today the Soviet Russian-Yugoslav friendship pact signed just before the outbreak of the Balkan conflict is "all the more valuable under the new conditions because the Soviet Union always fulfills its international pledges."

The paper said the pact gave "new proof to the attractive force of the principles of the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union."

"It also reflects further the strengthening position and international role of the U. S. S. R. and increases its influence on the development of international relations," the army organ added.

Red Star concluded:

"At the most critical moment in the development of events in the Balkans the Soviet-Yugoslav agreement demonstrated the peaceful intentions of the new government of Yugoslavia. Foreign political aims toward Yugoslavia aroused the full sympathy of the government of the Soviet Union, which is carrying on an active and continuous struggle for peace."

The paper reported that the Soviet had watched closely the efforts of the Yugoslav government, "based on the sympathy of a majority of the people," to keep the peace and their independence.

Nazis Claim Sinking Of 7 British Ships

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The German high command said today that German bombers yesterday sank a large tanker, five other large ships and a British destroyer. It claimed that total tonnage sunk by the German air force yesterday reached 49,000 tons of merchant shipping.

Strong formations of the German air force, favored by particularly good weather, were said to have "dealt severe blows" to Brimingham and Newcastle.

It was claimed by the high command that in addition to vessels sunk the German air force yesterday also damaged five large merchant ships and a British destroyer.

Japanese Report Damaging Capital of Chinese Province.

REPORT 5,000 TAKEN IN KENYA

South African Headquarters Say Natives, Italians Captured.

NAIROBI, Kenya —(U.P.)— South African headquarters said today that 5,000 prisoners, including 4,000 Italian and 1,000 native troops were captured when the British empire forces occupied Addis Ababa. Since then British patrols have rounded up an additional 1,450 Italian prisoners and 900 natives.

Two British officers and 18 South African motor transport drivers captured 800 Italian prisoners at Awash, 90 miles east of Addis Ababa.

RAF BOMBS HIT BERLIN OPERA

Building, Favorite of Hitler, Wrecked By Incendiaries In Heavy Raid.

ace, now a state gallery of modern art, also was hit.

The incendiaries, apparently coming down in bundles, fell on numerous other buildings along the avenue, including the historic Prussian state library, where the attic was burned out.

Similarly burned out was the top floor of the Emperor William I palace opposite the State opera, and the right wing of the university across the street.

A number of office buildings toward the Brandenburg gate suffered minor damage from incendiaries.

Informed sources said that the fire in the state library, which was reported brought under control quickly, had not damaged the collection of approximately 3,000,000 volumes housed there.

The State Opera building offered a sad sight, however.

The fire there apparently started at the rear end of the stage house, whence the flames, finding rich food, blew through the roof and ate their way into the proscenium through the front.

Spectators could see through the building from Unter Den Linden to unscarred St. Hedwig's cathedral immediately back of the opera.

While this part of the city apparently suffered from incendiaries only, official announcements said explosives struck two hospitals and apartment houses in other districts, killing and wounding a number of persons. The raid, the third on the capital since December, was said to have resulted in "heavy losses" for the invaders.

Thirteen British bombers were reported to have been shot down by night fighters and anti-aircraft guns on their approach and the Germans said they believed more were caught on their way back.

The radio informed Berlin residents that performances at the State Opera would be "temporarily" suspended.

The Germans said Nazi warplanes have sunk nine ships totaling 49,000 tons in the last 24 hours and have damaged a destroyer and five merchantmen aggregating 28,000 tons. All the vessels ran afoul the Luftwaffe off the southwest coast of England and the east coast of Scotland, they said.

Report 10 Nazi Bombers Shot Down

LONDON —(U.P.)— British night fighters shot down 10 more German bombers during last night's moonlight raids, which centered on a town in the west Midlands and districts in northeast England.

An air ministry-home security minister communique said damage to the two areas was "considerable," and that casualties "may prove heavy."

The northeast coast area was attacked for hours. Many fires were started and fireman braved a rain of bombs to get the fires under control by dawn. Casualties were heavy in several districts.

London had an alarm but no bombs were dropped there.

the customers what is carried in stock and to avoid generalized statements.

"Be direct and answer the customer's questions," Vining said. "In this way you won't waste your own time or the customer's."

Lodde said that postcards have been placed in the city's stores to aid customers in writing of their choice for the sales prizes. Sales persons, adjudged as exhibiting special sales technique, and the customers recommending them in their letters will each receive $5.

The prizes will be awarded next Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. at Vining's last lecture on "You, Yourself, Inc." Vining will also conduct a question box, answering special problems submitted by attending sales persons.

Preceding last night's lecture, a motion picture, "The Voice of Dr. X," was shown demonstrating the technique of selling by telephone.

Lodde warned all customers intending to write letters recommending sales people to have them post-marked before midnight next Monday and to address them to the association.

U. S. Agrees to Take Over Danish Greenland's Defense

American continent, and accepts the responsibility on behalf of the United States of assisting Greenland in maintenance of the present status.

"The agreement, after explicitly recognizing the Danish sovereignty over Greenland proceeds to grant to the United States the right to locate and construct airplane landing fields and facilities for the defense of Greenland and for the defense of the American continent."

It was Early who made the revelation that German planes had been spotted flying over the Danish possession.

The White House secretary further emphasized that the agreement was reached "in strict accordance with the Monroe Doctrine and completely within the agreement signed by the 21 American republics at Havana in which all recognized that no foreign possessions in this hemisphere shall be transferred to the flag of another country."

President Roosevelt's full statement follows:

"Yesterday we signed an agreement with the Danish minister in Washington, who acts on behalf of the King of Denmark, as sovereign of Greenland, including Greenland in our system of cooperative hemispheric defense.

"This agreement was signed on the anniversary of the day on which German troops invaded Denmark.

"Last May the Greenland councils requested the United States to keep in mind the exposed position of the Danish flag in Greenland. I at once offered to make available relief, if necessary, and to assure a continued flow of necessary supplies for the island.

"The present step is a new proof of our continuing friendliness to Denmark. Under the present circumstances the government in Denmark, cannot, of course, act in respect of its territory in the western hemisphere, but we propose to make sure that when the German invasion of Denmark has ended, Greenland will remain a Danish colony. Meanwhile we earnestly hope for the quick liberation of Denmark from her present invaders."

EXPECTS U. S. TO GET DANE SHIPS

Action By Congress, FDR To Acquire 39 Cargo Vessels Seen In Washington.

Danish vessels, were taken into protective custody by the coast guard recently because of sabotage by their crews or fears that sabotage would be undertaken.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference Tuesday this government had the right to declare these Axis ships forfeited but could not turn them over to Britain under such a procedure. However, their addition to the American merchant fleet might clear the way for release of some American vessels.

Meanwhile, negotiations were reported to be in progress for use of 11 small vessels flying the flags of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Ownership of these vessels is claimed both by the Soviet union—which absorbed the three Baltic countries—and by representatives of those countries here, the absorption not having been recognized by the United States.

The negotiations are intended to bring about a permanent operating agreement for all the ships, at least three of which already are plying between United States and Central American ports under a temporary agreement providing for a division of profits between the claimants.

Ships flying the flags of France, Belgium, China, the Netherlands, Finland, Norway, Rumania, Spain and Sweden are also idle in American ports, presenting other possibilities for purchase or chartering.

If the 39 Axis vessels are taken over, it was reported here, at least 25 will have to undergo extensive repairs for sabotage damage.

Funds paid out by the United States in the deal would be subject to the freezing order applied to the assets of all German-occupied nations in this country but, like those assets, they could be used to pay expenses of Danish legations here and in other American nations.

Foreign Office Says Danes Won't Sell

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (via Berlin) —(AP)— The foreign office declared today it had instructed Hendrick De Kauffman, Danish minister in Washington, to advise the United States that Denmark would neither sell nor lease Danish ships now in protective custody in American ports.

Reports from Washington said that President Roosevelt was expected to ask congressional approval today of a plan to charter or purchase the Danish vessels, numbering 39.

Wolfe Scores In Democratic Committee Scrap at Ashland

ASHLAND—The Ashland Democratic executive committee's "factional fued" blazed with new vigor today as Chairman Roe E. Wolfe scored a round in his fight to seat Joseph C. Tenschert of Loudonville, on the county board of elections.

Tenschert was nominated early this week by a committee faction headed by Wolfe. A majority faction meeting last Saturday named Vice Chairman Merle Yeater of Vermilion township to fill the vacancy created by the death of James Hess of Polk.

Secretary of State John Sweeney ruled today that the meeting at which Yeater was nominated was illegally held.

The executive committee had asked Sweeney for an opinion concerning the legal status of the meeting during which ouster proceedings were taken against Wolfe.

"We are compelled, after reviewing all the facts as presented to us to conclude that the meeting called by the vice chairman was without legal status and that action taken at such a meeting would likewise be void of legal effect," Sweeney said.

The ruling paved the way for the confirmation of the appointment of Tenschert. His name and that of Yeater's was submitted to Sweeney for approval.

Wolfe said today his chief aim as head of the committee will be to promote party harmony.

"As chairman I have always tried to do everything within my power to promote harmony and this I will continue to do," he stated. "It is unfortunate that some friction has arisen within the committee."

Calls on Ford Company, Union To Accept Three-Point Settlement Plan.

turned to their jobs without discrimination, at once, including five of the eight men. (The governor referred to the men whose discharge precipitated the strike.) Because of an agreement the Ford Motor company made with me not to reopen their plant during mediation, I am asking James F. Dewey to arbitrate the cases of the other three men—Ray Pilon, Jack Willkie and Andy Dewar.

"2—Grievance procedure established before the strike shall be resumed. Further, I myself, representing the state shall appoint a committee consisting of Mr. Dewey, representing the federal government, R. J. Thomas and Allan Haywood, representing the UAW-CIO, and Harry Bennett and one other Ford official representing the company, to continue to meet and settle any other matters of dispute which might arise before the NLRB election.

"3—Both parties, likewise, agree to do all in their power to expedite the holding of the labor board election. For example, the union should agree to an election within the plant and the company should agree to furnish payroll records."

Gov. Van Wagoner said he was sending telegrams this morning to both sides, including the proposal.

At the Rouge plant, there was a noticeable increase in the size of the picket line this morning. One picket captain said the number of men parading before the plant's gates was being increased "to impress Ford with the union."

The governor's announcement came following indications that mediation efforts were approaching a turning point. Henry Ford and Van Wagoner had conferred last night and earlier this morning the governor said "I know that Mr. Ford wants the strike settled quickly so that work can be resumed at once."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1941.

Democracy grants every man the right to be wrong.

After all, it might not be so nice to live in a state where spring fever is a year-around ailment.

It was claimed for a proposed regulatory law that it "would make race track gambling honest"—but isn't that rather too optimistic?

Few comments could be droller than the Nazi charge that seizure of Axis ships is "a violation of human rights and international law."

Find Way To Prevent Strikes

THE tremendous power of the Axis military machine, as it is now being thrown against Greece and Yugoslavia, gives an idea of opposing strength that must be developed to defeat Hitler and his ruthless associates.

With the United States irrevocably aligned on the side of Great Britain and the other nations fighting against totalitarian domination, the heavy responsibility resting on this country is steadily becoming clearer.

The outcome of this war will remain in doubt until the extent and effectiveness of American aid can be more definitely determined. It is not enough to say: "Hitler cannot win," or "right will triumph in the end." The defeat of Hitler and the triumph of right must be brought about by superior force—and the United States must quickly become a more important factor in contributing to that force.

Lack of unity, as evidenced by recent and current strikes in defense industries, is the most disturbing phase of the present domestic situation, for without unhampered production of military equipment and war supplies of all kinds, it seems unlikely that Great Britain can long continue to bear the brunt of maintaining her far-flung battle fronts.

Speed with which production was resumed in the Allis-Chalmers plant in Milwaukee, after that strike was referred to the defense mediation board, arouses hope that mediation will also be effective in settling other strikes now in progress and restoring harmony in the disturbed labor field.

Even more important, however, than settling strikes AFTER they have been in progress for days, weeks or months, is to find a way to iron out differences BEFORE a strike starts.

The "cooling off" period, as suggested by Defense Production Chief William S. Knudsen, is gaining support in preference to more drastic action that has been proposed by some congressmen and government officials.

As the matter now stands, the threatened strike in the steel industry has been temporarily averted, but assurance carries no further than April 15 unless a satisfactory agreement is reached by that time.

Just as a long-drawn-out stoppage of coal production would work irreparable harm, so even a brief strike of steel workers might mean a difference in armament output which would bring disaster to Britain and later to this country.

England is now in a plight in which it need not be urged that every man and woman should do his or her duty. When Nazi bombs are dropping from overhead people do not require urging to work day and night, if necessary. If Americans awaken in time the present grave danger may be dispelled.

Legion Commander Asks Unity

VALUE of the dependably sound-thinking leadership of the American Legion was again recognized by Mansfielders who heard the address given here Tuesday evening by National Commander Milo J. Warner.

Recently returned from a fact-finding tour of England, Commander Warner is well equipped to judge conditions and also to estimate the needs of Great Britain for successful conduct of the war.

"We are for an honorable peace," he said, "but some things are worse than war. We must preserve our national honor and institutions at any cost. . . . We must face the facts, even if it makes us twinge, and let nothing stop us from producing and delivering supplies to Great Britain."

Views of the American Legion on the subject of strikes were also plainly expressed. "The Legion believes," said its national commander, "that the fundamental rights of every American citizen should be preserved, including the right to strike, but it believes the need to strike should be eliminated. But at no time is there a right to riot. The Legion asks law and order. It should be as safe to walk in and out of factories as it is in front of the state house or national capitol."

Two suggestions in Commander Warner's five-point program for unified national action are especially impressive at the moment: "Cast aside all partisanship and selfishness and work together in our defense program," and "Be loyal to the president and others we helped to place in public office. Support them and co-operate with them."

An Understanding Group

ONE of the greatest waves of applause at the president's recent speech before the White House Correspondents association came when he said that unnecessary strikes cannot be tolerated.

The Washington newspapermen probably know better than any other group to what extent labor racketeering has been interfering with the defense program. They know that the total defense can never be attained so long as a few unscrupulous labor leaders seem to have no other ambition than to exploit the emergency to the limit.

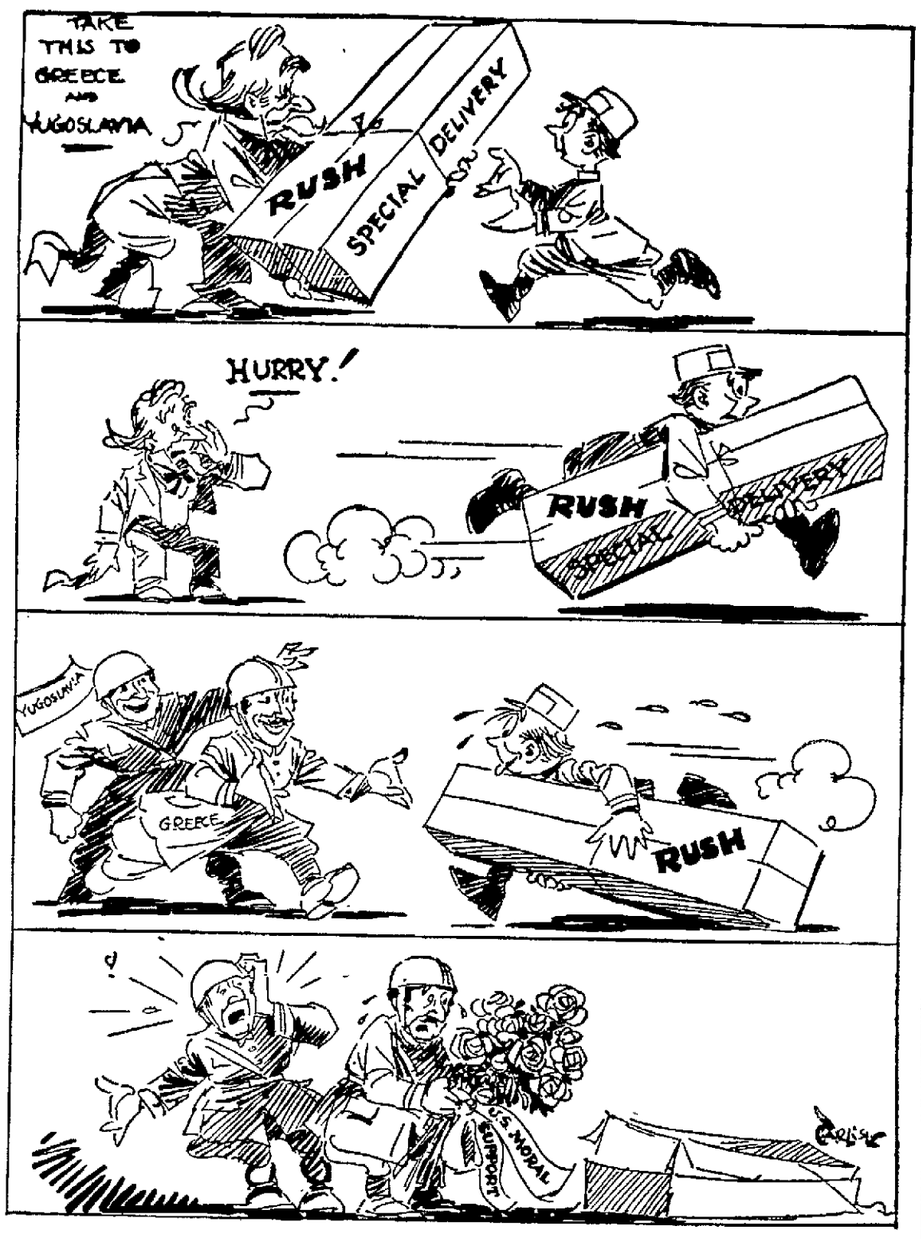
Honest labor should keep this in mind. The man who delays defense through an unjustified strike belongs in the same classification as the war profiteer. Both are enemies of American security and safety.

Kites Announce Spring Is Here

KITES are as sure a sign of spring as northward-flying birds and carpets of wild flowers. Boys today usually buy them ready-made and miss the experience their dads had of planning and making kites that would fly successfully. It may be that this sport won't develop any Benjamin Franklins or Wright brothers working out important scientific problems, but it certainly teaches youngsters something about air currents, wind resistance and lifting power.

It is harder for the modern boy to fly his kite in safety because there are so many overhead wires for it to get tangled in. The Edison Electric Institute, publicity agency of the electric utilities, has taken note of this problem with a special educational campaign to teach boys to keep kites and power lines apart.

HELP FROM THE ARSENAL OF DEMOCRACY



Coast-to-Coast Rail Shipments

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Any day now all the ships in the coast to coast service via the Panama Canal will be taken off that run and put in transatlantic business, whether under the British flag or some other. There are 113 vessels in this trade now, and the Pacific coast is all in a dither as to whether they can be spared. There are a lot of curious angles to the picture.

One of the funniest would seem to be that war makes even stranger bedfellows than politics. Back in 1914, the question of Panama Canal tolls had the country by the ears. It was probably the last time, and the most exciting, that the anti-British element in the United States had a real good round of lion's tail twisting.

The Democratic platform on which Woodrow Wilson had been elected in 1912 pledged continuance of free passage through the canal for ships in the coastwise trade—that is ships plying between Seattle, or San Francisco, or Los Angeles, on the Pacific coast, and New York or some other Atlantic coast port in this country. Not ships bound from San Francisco to Liverpool, or from New York to Santiago, Chile—these always had to pay tolls.

THE country never understood the distinction very well, and most of the electorate thought it was a dispute as to whether U. S. ships could use our own canal without payment. Actually, there never was any question of an advantage as between ships under different flags on the same run. Under our law foreign flag ships are not allowed to take part in our "coastwise" trade, and any trade between U. S. ports, even if one of them in Honolulu and the other Portland, Maine, is "coastwise" under the law.

President Wilson decided, however, that under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty this business of exempting coastwise shipping from tolls was unethical, so there was a spectacular fight.

Now the fight—if it can be dignified by that name—is over whether we are going to turn all our coastwise ships over to Britain. The answer is "Yes." Those ships are needed to carry the supplies we want to give Britain across the Atlantic, and, as Col. William J. Donavan says, there is no use making the guns and shells and planes if we can't deliver them.

NEXT comes the question, what will happen to that freight that these 113 ships have been carrying? That's easy, too. M. J. Gormley, executive assistant of the Association of American Railroads, says the increase in the railroad business resulting would be so slight "we would hardly notice it."

The last available figures, if you are skeptical, are of the year 1937, but that happens to have been the best year since Coolidge. In that period eastbound traffic via the Panama Canal amounted to 4,693,541 short tons, or 177,486 carloads, while westbound traffic amounted to 3,039,164 short tons, or 109,355 carloads.

The heavier eastbound traffic would amount. Mr. Gormley points out, to one train of 70 cars on each one of the seven transcontinental railroad lines, which, he insists, would not complicate the schedules of any one of them. In case you cannot remember all seven, they are: Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Union Pacific, Western Pacific (Denver and Rio Grande), Southern Pacific, and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

Clean Up for Spring

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE'VE been cleaning up the east forty—yanking out and burning up the brush that has crept among the trees, opening up long vistas so the forest growth can breathe.

It's tough stuff, that chaparral. Sneaks up on you when you're not looking. Three years ago we could have pulled most of it by hand: now it takes a bucking tractor to heave it loose.

Pretty, some of it, with the creamy buds just breaking into a foam. And the secret places between the great bushes where the grass grows, fine as hair, wreathed with tiny ferns and yellow violets. Secret places where you can lie far away from the world, dreaming, hidden in the chaparral. But, no matter how lovely, it has to go or it will strangle the land.

So we're cleaning up the east forty—and it's like watching a battle to see the soil come free. All in front, wherever you turn, there's the spangled mist of new green leaves and the pines, rising straight and clean, out of the tide of spring blossoming. Then, behind the growth, along the hill, the men shout, the tractor snarls, the smoke billows its blue banners . . . and the upturned earth has that sharp, rich smell of all the yesterdays.

It's a mess, of course. You've woodticks on your neck, they thrive on chaparral; cinders get in your eyes and blisters form on your heels. But it's a great sight to see your land coming clear, acre by acre, and your good timber spreading its branches free to the sun.

I suppose the pioneer fathers felt like that, long ago. Indeed, I know they did, for my years have been largely spent in the places where they're still blasting stumps and yanking chaparral. And springtime, to me, will always be that mingled tang of new-turned earth and burning brush.

A strange sort of springtime, you may be thinking. To kill all that fresh growth, to leave those living acres covered with ash? Perhaps. But if you'll think it over, it may not seem so strange.

FOR THE SPRING CAN'T COME UNLESS YOU CLEAR THE WAY!

That chaparral, for all it seems so lovely in its crowding mass, stops every other growth that lies within its way. Chokes the eager soil. Stunts the thrusting trees. Kills the thick and fruitful grass. Year after year, its dead limbs form a net which slowly but surely strangles all the hope of fresh new growth. The brush that strangles life. For minds may grow their chaparral as well as hillside earth.

How close that program lies to our own progress. First, the clean soil, waiting the seed. Then sapling pines and oaks, clear-cut against the sky. And then, insidiously, the crowding brush. The brush of useless habits, craven compromise, day dreams that drain the solid substance out of life, the pampered prejudices and feuds that harden on us like a scale. The smothering love of comfort and the cramping stubbornness—the fear of change. How fast they crowd about us as we grow. How quickly they shut off the wide horizons of the mind and soul.

I wonder how our lives would seem if we would let experience burn off the choking growth? Suppose, instead of clinging to each stupid thought, each foolish feeling, habit and prejudice, we'd let Life clear our wastelands as she clears her soil, leaving us bare and clean for new adventuring?

Suppose, just once, we dared to clear the way for Spring?

Nazi Divisions On Soviet Border, Hitler Guards Against Own 'Ally'

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Few people outside the general staffs of Europe realize that Hitler has steadily kept 100 divisions along the Russian border—apparently on guard against his own friend and alleged ally.

One hundred divisions is a total of about 1,500,000 men, which is far more than Hitler has concentrated in the Balkans. This, and other things, indicate the growing coolness between Stalin and Hitler.

Among the other things are Russia's almost complete failure to deliver oil in anything more than driblets to the German army, plus her failure to come across with promised food shipments.

Also it is obvious that Hitler's drive on Salonika is nothing more nor less than an attempt to fulfill the old Bismarck dream of a Berlin-to-Bagdad railway, which means, of course, seizure of the Straits—Russia's outlet to the Mediterranean.

All of which explains the friendship pact suddenly signed between Russia and Yugoslavia.

Twisting Lion's Tail.

THE famous bearded congressman, George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts, had an encounter with the British at a local hotel the other day, and beat a hasty retreat.

He got into conversation with Henry L. Stimson's nephew, Captain Jules James of the U. S. navy, who said he was about to leave for Bermuda to take charge of the new naval and air base. Standing beside James was General D. H. Pratt, head of the British tank mission, but Tinkham was apparently unaware that Pratt was an Englishman.

Addressing himself to James, Tinkham said: "Well, you've got a soft spot—Bermuda. In my opinion, we ought to take over that island and all the other British possessions in this hemisphere to make the hemisphere American from stem to stern."

"I can't quite agree with you there, sir," said General Pratt, in an accent that left no doubt of his being a Britisher.

Tinkham's beard bobbed in apology. "I was only blowing off," he said, "the way I blow off in the house of representatives now and then. You must excuse me, sir."

Cotton Ed's Son.

SENATOR Ellison D. ("Cotton Ed") Smith of South Carolina voted for the draft act, but doesn't seem anxious to let his son, Ellison D. Smith, jr., be drafted. In fact, the senator intervened personally with officials of a District of Columbia draft board in order to get his son placed on the deferred list.

Young Smith, who is a law student at National University, first wrote a letter to the draft board explaining that he was indispensable to the senate agriculture committee, of which he is clerk and his father is chairman.

Draft board officials, however, could not see how young Smith was competent to pass judgment on whether he was really essential to the efficiency of the agriculture committee. So "Cotton Ed" himself came to the draft board office.

"Young man," boomed the senator from South Carolina, "you have me on the spot."

"Cotton Ed" was advised that he would be even more on the spot if he wrote a letter over his own signature asking that his son be deferred. Instead he was advised to get a letter from other members of the senate agriculture committee. This the senator did.

Young Smith draws a salary of $3,900 from Uncle Sam for working for this committee, and he is not the only member of the family on the government payroll. Here is the roll-call.

Alfred Lawton, son-in-law, secretary to the senator, $3,900.

Mrs. Alfred Lawton, daughter, clerk, $2,200.

Anna B. Pierce, another daughter, assistant, $2,200.

Carlton Pierce, clerk in R. F. C., $2,100.

Ellison D. Smith, jr., secretary to agriculture committee, $3,900.

Senator Smith's salary, $10,000.

Total for family, $24,300.

Restless Nazi Troops.

HITLER was leaning over backward to avoid war in the Balkans in order not to spoil the grain crops of Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, which he needs for food. But the Balkan campaign had at least one advantage for him.

He was able to shift restless Nazi troops from France and the Low Countries.

German troops primarily are home-bodies—much more so than the British. And while excellent fighters, they go stale when merely on police duty. British intelligence reports from France indicate that German occupation troops had become very restless, and Hitler was glad to shift many of them to active service.

Congressional Air Escape.

ON THEIR way to Corpus Christi, Texas, to participate in the opening of the navy's great new training station, members of the house naval affairs committee were flown over Atlanta so they might view the scene of the airline crash that killed their colleague, Representative William Byron of Maryland.

On their way back, not far from the same place, the party had the hair-raising experience of almost crashing themselves.

The incident was hushed up, but the navy transport plane carrying the group plunged 2,000 feet in a crazy spiral that still has the boys jittery. The plane seemed completely out of control as it zigzagged earthward, and those aboard thought they were goners.

To add to their fears, Representative Mel Maas of Minnesota, World war flyer and marine air reserve colonel, who was in the control room, threw open the doors and yelled what some thought was a command to "put on parachutes." Actually Maas shouted, "Fasten your safety belts," but he was misunderstood in the wild confusion.

Luckily, the big transport had been flying at 13,000 feet and the pilot was able to right the ship.

Nazi Funds.

ONE squeeze play U. S. officials are holding up their sleeve to use against Germany is the heavy Axis investment in the United States.

Germany has $106,000,000 in this country, tied up in subsidiary companies, short term investments, bank deposits and long term loans. Italy has $104,000,000 in similar U. S. investments.

And the state department is keeping quiet about a plan to seize these investments if Germany should retaliate against the United States for seizing Axis ships.

Incidentally, most people don't realize that it is still possible for Americans to send money to Germany whereas the funds of France, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium are frozen.

One typical result is that the big perfumery dealers in France now sell far more cosmetics to Germany than the United States. The French can have no financial transactions with the United States, but because Nazi funds are not frozen, the perfume manufacturers can get their money from Germany, which in turn sells to the United States.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The library of the New York Academy of Medicine suggests the intense stillness conveyed by Coleridge in his beautiful line, "As silent as a painted ship upon a painted ocean." It is where the thirsty for knowledge come silently to sit at broad, cork-topped reading tables and drink in the satisfying substances from an endless sea of text and reference books.

Doctors, students, nurses, writers come and go so quietly that no football ever echoes and no doors squeak. I tarried there, briefly, yesterday, and in those few moments nine men came in, though not together, and each was recognized by the attendant and greeted as "Doctor." One was interested in cancer research. Another desired a treatise on the use of anathesia in the Civil war. A third wanted a history of Mesmerism. It was fascinating to study these men and see their requests. They wrote them on little slips of paper and dropped them into a basket. I was really sorry when my own books came.

THOUGH he is in his sixties, W. Somerset Maugham continues to be one of the most prolific of writers. It was less than a year ago that his "last" group of short stories, published in book form, came out. This month a new novel, "Up at the Villa," is announced for publication. And this month too one of his novels, dramatized, will come to Broadway. He has written more than 20 plays and novels, and literally hundreds of short stories. Maugham is an interesting study of the purposeful man who wants to go somewhere and knows how to do it. He writes regularly, habitually, in routine, just as one dines and sleeps by routine. He writes longhand, with a scratching pen and a tireless, nerveless patience.

His characters are always from life. "If you don't write about the people you know, you don't know your characters very well," is the way he sums it up.

WILLIAM PERCY is not a southerner who just happens to be a gentleman. He is a gentleman who happens to have been born and reared in the Delta country of Mississippi, who went to Sewance and Harvard and who studied law and wrote poetry and settled down, after the World war, to the duties of a southern planter and, finally, to write an engaging book called "Lanterns on the Levee."

This is called an autobiography by his publishers as well as himself, but I look upon it rather as the scholarly and lucid expression of one man's views on a way of life that doesn't exist any more and on the change that has come over his part of the South and his own reaction to this change. He has some things to say about share-cropping and the land and the so-called "race problem" that some people will not agree with and others will not understand. But it is a thoughtful and beautiful statement—more of a confidence than a book, and I for one count myself fortunate to have read it.

Advance In Infantile Paralysis Battle.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE INCIDENCE of occurrence of infantile paralysis has not changed at all in the last twenty-five years because we do not know any practical methods of prevention.

Undoubtedly infantile paralysis is spread from individual to individual in a number of ways. It is not a very frequent disease and when an epidemic does occur it is probably spread largely by direct contact or cough droplets or in the breath, or in the air of a badly ventilated room.

Investigation Started.

One definite method of spread seems to have been discovered, which is that epidemics have been proved to occur from water contaminated with sewage. It is well known to those who study epidemics that infantile paralysis tends to occur in neighborhoods.

For instance, a case which started a line of investigation occurred in Connecticut in the summer of 1939. Attention was first called to this when a girl 18 years old was admitted to the New Haven Hospital with a severe paralytic form of the disease. She was the first patient with the disease to be reported from that part of the state for over a year. Another patient with recent acute paralysis was soon discovered in the same community and presently cases occurred in many members of the six related families who lived close by.

Not so long afterwards fourteen cases were reported from the western part of Connecticut. The location of cases bore a very definite relationship to the banks of a stream or river which drains off sewage and industrial waste from the entire region.

Epidemics of this kind are by no means rare, and have been reported in Sweden, Germany and Rumania, also in various parts of the United States.

The virus of infantile paralysis can be isolated from this sewage water. It cannot be isolated from ordinary running water unless the water has been polluted by sewage.

I reported some of the preliminary work along this line a little over a year ago. Last year the American Medical Association gave a prize to the men who had done the research work, which would indicate that it is considered to be very authentic and valuable and may be the beginning of our knowledge of the prevention of this dread disease.

21 NATIONS TO BE REPRESENTED AT CELEBRATION

Ohio University Plans Event on Pan-Americanism April 23-25.

ATHENS—(AP)—Seeking a closer integration and action between peoples of the Americas, Ohio University today summoned representatives of 21 western hemisphere republics to a Pan-American celebration on the campus April 23-25.

Predicated upon a "learn from each other" principle, forum sessions were scheduled for representatives discussions on industry, finance, education, customs, art and agriculture, with motion pictures as a visual aid

Dr. Herman G James, president of Ohio University, said the United States Department of State had promised "full cooperation" for the celebration Dr. James, author of the book "The Republics of South America," was private secretary of the American delegation to the fourth Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires.

Dr. Wilfred J Smith, history instructor and chairman of the celebartion, said exhibits of industrial products, farm appliances, literature and transportation would supplement oral discussions. Informal forums are to be thrown open to public participation. The program highlighted a talk by Dr. Luis Quintanilla, Mexican minister plenipotentiary to the United States.

Military attaches of the respective republics were invited to review a general demonstration of general subject matter covered in the four-year course of the university's reserve officers' training corps. An elaborate military review and various field and combat demonstrations are included.

Provisions were made for exhibiting motion pictures and industrial products to school children in the southern half of the state, and 150 bankers were invited to attend a financial forum April 24.

Albanian City Report Seized By Yugoslavs

May Use Girls to Sell Gasoline at Filling Stations

SACRAMENTO, Cal — (INS) — Drive-ins use them, why not service stations, ask two major oil companies.

Girls as service station attendants will give their gasoline sex appeal, and as such, an increase of sales and advertising is expected.

The assumed reaction of the motorists by the companies is that when a pretty miss says, "What'll it be mister?" the motorist will stutter a little and respond with something like this.

"Ahem—why, just fill her up, honey. Better check my oil too, while you're about it."

The sale of a spark plug or two, a can of polish and perhaps even a couple of tires might easily follow.

WORK PART TIME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(U P)—To defray college expenses, 1,316 Harvard students earned $260 396 during the 1939-10 academic year in temporary employment that included 100 baby-tending assignments.

The student employment office reports the odd jobs included work for 891 typists, 328 entertainers and 214 waiters.

HOMESTEADING URGED

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U P)—The state has adopted a memorial petitioning congress to permit homesteading on the state's lone "island," a section of land in the channel of the Colorado river near Yuma.

GALION RELIEF CORPS MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Guests Present From Six Towns; Dinner Program Held In Armory.

GALION—To help the Woman's Relief Corps celebrate its 50th anniversary, Tuesday, department officers came to Galion besides guests from Mansfield, Mt. Gilead, Crestline, Shelby, Ashland and Bucyrus.

Climaxing an afternoon session, and dinner, a miscellaneous program was presented in the evening at the Galion armory.

Although the Galion corps was organized on April 2, it was decided to observe the golden anniversary yesterday because that marked the regular meeting day of the organization.

When the meeting was opened in the afternoon, greetings were extended from various organizations of the city who sent flowers. Responses to the offerings were given by Mrs. Carl Coover, one of the three living past presidents of the corps, who acted as general chairman of arrangements for the observance.

Comrade Thomas Ridenour of Crestline, department president of the G. A. R. of Ohio, was welcomed and presented with a gift. During the afternoon there were short talks given as the department officers were introduced. Those present included the department president, Marie Linch, Columbus; senior vice president, Jane Neff, Mansfield; junior vice president, Ruth Evans of Youngstown; and the department child welfare committee chairman, Mae Richards of Youngstown.

There were 52 present for the anniversary dinner in the evening at the Market Street Methodist church. A large anniversary cake was cut during the meal. Group singing at the table was led by Mrs. Jennie Gleeson who was program chairman for the afternoon and evening.

Following the dinner, the corps and its guests, assembled again at the armory for the evening program. The welcome was given by Mrs. Charles Farnsworth, who is the present president of the organization. The program chairman, Mrs Gleeson, was introduced by Mrs. Carl Coover. Following the opening exercises and selections by the kitchen orchestra of the corps, a history of the organization which had been prepared by Mrs. Claire Drake, was read by Mrs. August Christman of Bucyrus who has been a member of the local group for 42 years.

Music and readings comprised the evening's program and those taking part were a chorus of women; Betty Bauer, Jean Cowl, Franklin Berry, Elemer Phillips, Ralph Hitsman, Franklin Craun, Ruth Ricker, Arlene Craner, Gene Rehm, Virginia Tracht, Luella Guinther, Donna Steinhelfer.

Bertha Church of Mt. Vernon, past department president of the Federated Societies of Ohio, responded with a talk when she was introduced with the other guests. All of the department officers were presented with gifts by Mrs. Frank Newman, in behalf of the corps. Mrs. Coover, who is senior vice aid, as well as chairman of the anniversary observance, also was presented with a gift. Mrs. Farnworth and Mrs. Gleeson also received gifts.

Besides Mrs. Coover there are two other past presidents, Mrs. John Bittner and Mrs. Frank Newman.

The corps now has a membership of 88, and sponsors a junior club which will have its second birthday this month.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

by

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T DOUBLE SLAMS.

In rubber bridge there is nothing more foolish than doubling a hostile slam contract, which you expect to set a trick or two, unless your holding is such that you are absolutely certain to beat it, regardless of what declarer does. By means of your double, you increase the points gained by your side, if you do set it, by a very small amount. Against this is the fact that your double stands to increase the declarer's score by much more if he makes the contract. But more important still is the help your double gives him in showing him how to play the hand. If you use the double of a slam as a lead-director, of course that is a different proposition.

	♠ 8 2 ♥ K 7 6 ♦ K 8 6 5 4 ♣ J 4 2
♠ K Q 10 7 4 3 ♥ 9 2 ♦ J 10 7 2 ♣ 10	N. W. E. S.	♠ A J 9 6 5 ♥ 10 4 3 ♦ Q 9 ♣ K Q 3
	♠ None ♥ A Q J 8 5 ♦ A 3 ♣ A 9 8 7 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
Pass	5 ♠	6 ♣	Dbl

North, who knew the opposing pair pretty well, and likewise his own partner, played a great game of possum by waiting as he did before speaking at all. He knew his very conservative partner had a pile of strong cards and distribution to stick in that "reverse" bids of hearts at the four level over the 3-Spades. By letting that go by until the opponents overcalled in their own suit, and then calling hearts, he made it possible for himself later to bid the small slam in clubs and give his partner the option between the two suits without increasing the contract.

It would have been pretty hard for East to resist the temptation to double this, especially since he expected also to double hearts because of his honors in what would then become the declarer's side suit, plus his other high cards. But later he was sorry he did it, since it enabled the declarer to make his contract.

West decided to lead the diamond J, won by the dummy's K. South then led the club J from dummy, and when East ducked he let it ride, dropping the 10. His club A next disposed of the K, and he gave up one trick. Without the double, natural play would have been to play the A on the first round of trumps, which would have lost the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ Q 5 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ A Q J 9 7 5 ♣ 10 6
♠ 6 2 ♥ 9 6 4 3 ♦ K 8 6 ♣ Q J 4 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ A 7 4 ♥ K J 5 ♦ 10 3 2 ♣ K 9 7 5
	♠ K J 10 9 8 3 ♥ 10 7 2 ♦ 4 ♣ A 8 2

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

If West leads the club 3 to East's K and the declarer ducks the trick, what should East return in an effort to prevent an overtrick at 4-spades?

9692

By MARIAN MARTIN

It's more important than ever to have smooth, perfectly fitting undergarments during Spring and Summer months when you wear sheer frocks and go without a coat. This easy-to-use Marian Martin Pattern, 9692, is just what you need. It's proportioned for the larger figure, and it includes a slip and your choice of panties or bloomers. There are long panels down both the front and the back of the slip. That extra curved seaming at the hips makes for smoothness through the waistline, for graceful fullness in the skirt, and prevents twisting, binding or up-riding. Notice the shoulder straps, planned in built-up style so that they won't slip. Choose a square or pointed neckline, and use fresh lace edging.

Pattern 9692 may be ordered only in women's sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, slip, requires 2¼ yards 39 inch fabric and 2⅞ yards lace edging.

Send Fifteen Cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was no withstanding the eager determination in Ronald's voice. I put out my hand and grasped his warmly.

"If I can manage it, and I think I can, you won't have to go on any lonely search by yourself," I assured him. "I shall know more about it when you telephone me tonight. I shall give orders to the hotel to connect me, no matter what time you call."

"Thank you so much," he said. "Shall I take you down first and then come back for the bag?"

I smiled at his solicitous face.

"I'm not coming down just yet," I told him. "If you'll take the bag down, I shall be most grateful. And if you see your mother, tell her, please, that I shall join her in five minutes."

"All right, I'll tell her," he said, picking up my bag. "And," he added boyishly, "thank you for everything."

He went down the stairs quickly, and I shut the door with the feeling that I must have five minutes to myself before going down to join the family at dinner.

With swift fingers, I "freshened up" for dinner, and put on my "flummeries," laying out upon the bureau the white tailored collar, which would transform my gown back into a traveling costume. Then I put back my toilet articles into the open bag, and made the mental calculation that two minutes, if I had no longer period, would suffice to change my neckwear, put away the dinner ones, and close my bag ready for my journey.

But though I was ready to go down to dinner, I sat down in the nearest chair with the wish that I could lie down and sleep for hours. I was far more fatigued than I had realized, and I found myself looking forward with actual dismay to my long night ride on the train. For I knew that Dicky was right in saying that my anxiety over what vital message might be concealed in Marion's strange letter would effectually banish sleep from my eyes during my train ride.

But I reminded myself sternly that there was not the least use in worrying over something that could not be helped. This was my own particular job, and I must go through with it. And above all I must not worry Dicky with my feelings, for he would insist on going with me, leaving Carolyn's return to college in the hands of her parents and Ronald, even though there might be danger of the Brixtons finding out what was happening, something which Lillian dreaded, I knew, more than anything else except the possibility that something terrible might happen to Marion.

I stood up and stretched my arms high above my head, always a gesture of mine when facing some task that seems too formidable to me. Then I brought them back to my sides, clenching the fingers into the palms in an effort to recharge my spent will power. And at last, with the feeling that I was "girl for battle," I went down the stairs to the living room, finding to my surprise that Carolyn had come down stairs and joined the others, evidently reassured by my promise that Ronald would ask her no questions, and relying upon Dicky's presence and mine to keep her from questioning upon the part of her parents.

A Call for Carolyn.

"I was getting worried about you, darling," Helena fluttered. "I was just going upstairs to see if you were all right."

"Oh! I hope I haven't kept dinner waiting!" I said with quick contrition.

"Not a minute," she answered, "but I expect her to announce it any second now."

The shrilling of the telephone bell in the hall put a period to her sentence, and we heard the voice of a servant in the hall answering it. The next second the maid came to the door.

"There's a gentleman on the phone who wants to speak to Miss Carolyn," she said.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, April 11.

A rather happy and progressive day may be presaged although it may be that the mind and energies are predisposed to the higher, finer and less sordid and gainful things of life rather than the purely material and commonplace. The cultural, artistic, and ultra intellectual expressions may predominate, although social, pleasure-seeking and humane urges may be a factor for much success and happiness. Superiors may not be co-operative and there may be some private annoyances of trivial import.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the finer, more advanced, intellectual and cultural vocations and avocations may be to the fore, with the commonplace and utilitarian relegated to the background. The humane, social, and romantic urges may bring pleasure and profit, although there may be lack of support from high personages and also there may be minor duplicities and annoyances.

A child born on this day may be endowed with many cultural and social graces fitting it for a recognized place in advancing human welfare and lofty ideals and objectives.

Festive Dessert.

1 tablespoon granulated geletin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup boiling peach juice
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup chopped figs
½ cup chopped peaches
2 egg whites beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked crust

Soak geletin five minutes in water. Cook until a little thick in double boiler, peach juice, salt, yolks and sugar. Add geletin and stir until dissolved. Cool and fold, in lemon juice, rind, figs, peaches and whites. Chill until "quivery," add vanilla and pour into crust. Chill until firm.

Orange Rolls

½ cup orange juice
4 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Boil ingredients a minute. Cool, then pour into eight greased muffin pans—or you can use one large shallow pan, pouring in all the liquid. Add the rolls.

MASHED IN JACKETS

MOSCOW, Ida. — (U.P.) — Mashed potatoes with their jackets on is a regular feature on the menu of 300 University of Idaho students who live in two men's halls on the campus. The students maintain leaving the jackets on gives the potatoes an improved flavor and an "interesting" pepper-flecked appearance.

FISHING CATCH IN U. S. MAY BE INCREASED

Hike In Annual Yield Would Boost Food Production 86 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The United States can boost its production of fish 46 per cent without "letting down the bars of wise conservation practices," according to Elmer Higgins, chief of the division of fishery biology of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

This gain in total number of fish, Higgins said, could be accompanied by an 86 per cent increase in the amount of food produced by the fishery industry.

Present gross annual production of the American fish industry is 4,254,000,000 pounds. This could be increased within three or four years to 4,628,000,000 and a few years later would reach 6,200,000,000 pounds, Higgins said.

Extension of fishing fleet activities to areas not now fished, expansion of fleet personnel and equipment, regulation of catches to allow fish to reach maximum development, and production of species hitherto unutilized by the fisheries industries were cited by Higgins as production stimulants.

Present annual yield of 1,920,000,000 pounds of food from American fisheries could be stepped up to 3,582,000,000 pounds under the expanded total production program.

He said all of the measures recommended by fishery research experts throughout the United States, contemplate "natural and healthy development of the fisheries" in future years.

"Fortunately," he said, "the mistakes of the last war still linger in our memory, when through relaxation of reasonable protective regulations, the existing fish supplies suffered injuries from overfishing which take years to remedy. I can imagine no emergency so great as to make it necessary to destroy the fishery resources for the sake of temporarily augmenting the food supply."

FOUR ENLIST

Mt. Vernon Youths Enrolled For Navy Training.

The Mansfield U. S. Navy recruiting station reported today that four Mt. Vernon youths enlisted in the service.

The recruits are William H. Pumphrey, Robert W. Weaver, Elmer L. Dickson and James E. Little, all of Mt. Vernon.

An unlimited number of men between the ages of 17 and 31 will be accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Navy during April.

In addition, men between the ages of 17 and 28 with aviation trade or aviation vocational school, or equivalent training through previous employment will be accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Naval Reserve and sent for further training to an aviation school or an aviation flight activity.

PERSONAL TUTOR

FORT McDOWELL, Cal. (U.P.) — It is believed here in military circles that Private Woodrow W. Hendrick of Sacramento will be the most thoroughly instructed draftee in the new army.

He has been assigned to Angel Island for training and is the only inexperienced man in the contingent there, composed of 23 soldiers. All will undertake his training. He has a corporal all to himself as his first personal tutor, as well as two lieutenant-colonels as supervisors of his training.

PITCHES HORSESHOES

BATON ROUGE, La.—(U.P.)—Officials of this state, led by Gov. Sam H. Jones, have turned to the sport of their grandfathers to shed the cares of office—namely, horseshoes. In the rear of the governor's mansion, Jones has built a horseshoe pit where he can be found daily before lunch and late in the afternoon.

VENDOL WENT TO WORK

"I was amazed at how quickly Vendol went to work, and I believe the first dose showed results," says Mrs. O. W. Crawford of route 2, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

"When I am constipated I seldom feel right but have symptoms like dizziness, spots before my eyes, acid indigestion, gas and bloated stomach due to constipation and always hate to start my day's work. Vendol gives smooth, thorough bowel action, and this temporary relief from constipation makes me feel just swell again. When I'm not constipated I never have symptoms like dizzy feelings, headaches, sour stomach, and I hustle off to work feeling tip top."

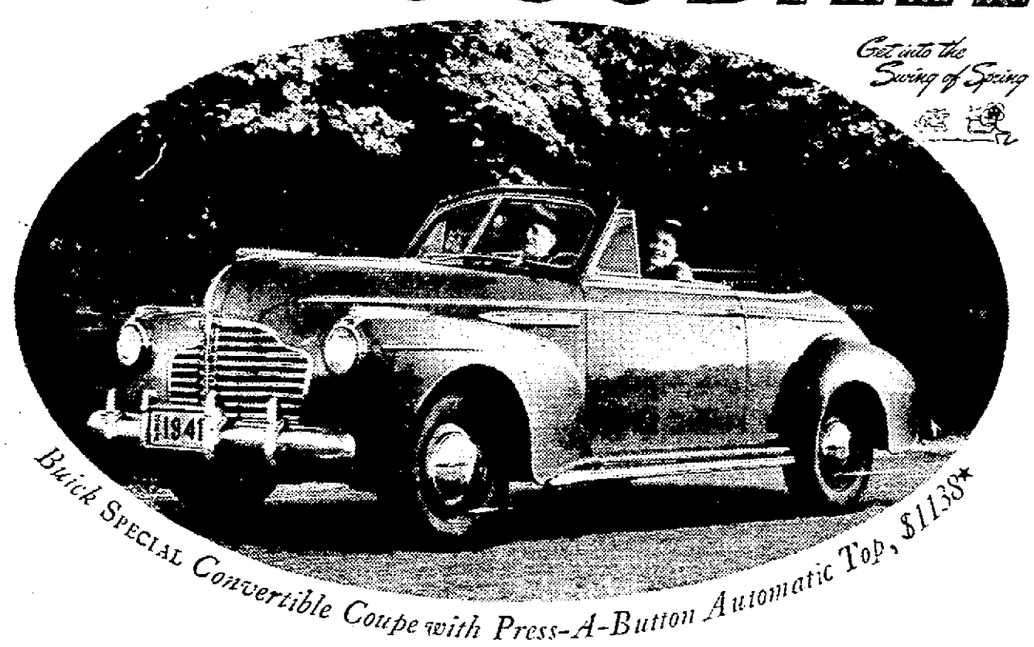
No wonder we're staging a SPRING JUBILEE



Buick Special Convertible Coupe with Press-A-Button Automatic Top, $1138*

WHAT you see here is something more than the very picture of bright and thrilling action and trim fresh styling.

It is something even more than the most talked-about automobile in America—it is the most outstanding Buick in all our long history.

It is selling at record pace—making valued new friends among people heretofore unacquainted with Buick—and it not only holds fourth place in the country as a whole, but in the nation's No. 1 automobile market it holds second place, topped only by one of the lowest-priced cars.

Such a record, when made by a car of Buick's size, power and price, really calls for jubilee, so we're staging one.

In all Buick showrooms, starting April 12, you'll find special displays in fittingly springlike surroundings where you can see, admire, sit in and probe into the year's unquestioned Biggest Hit.

Here you can get the whole story about Fireball design that squeezes more good and more mileage out of gasoline—here you can get all the facts (and straight) about Compound Carburetion,* and how it ups mileage as much as 10% to 15% over last year's engines of the same size.

Here you'll see and can try out the very newest Buicks, the four new, more compact Buick Specials that wrap up Fireball straight-eight life and ginger in an easy-handling package that is actually roomier inside than some sixes that cost you more.

In a word, here you see the values that set the standard by which all cars are being judged today.

Why not drop in and browse around? The latch string's out—you will be very welcome anytime.

*Optional at extra cost on the Buick Special, standard equipment on all other series.

BUICK PRICES BEGIN AT $915 for the Business Coupe

*delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

Senate Gets Ohio Appropriations Bill

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

This Is Broadway Now.

YOU know you're in New York when Mildred Bailey sings on the little black stage of the Ruban Bleu, a big girl who stands very still in a black dress with a hood over her black pompadour and sings in a sad, sweet, hopeful voice that cries a little when the notes are blue.

Kilgallen.

She holds a black sheer handkerchief down by her side and makes her eyes very small in her big face when she sings; but even when she makes her voice very small you can hear her clear and sweet over the crooning of the four black boys behind her and the thump of the bass fiddle, and the piano and the guitar.

"Georgia On My Mind" is what she sings best into the smoke of the crowded room, calling it out, very quietly, asking something, you don't know what; and when she sings it you listen with your heart.

You don't get that in Peoria.

The Cloop is a little place on Swing street, down a couple of steps into a brownstone front that used to be Tony's when Tony's was a speakeasy where you sat at a wooden table and watched the cook make spaghetti.

It is a narrow room, and now there are red and white stripes going up the walls and across the ceiling, to make you feel as though you were sitting inside a candy cane.

At one end there are two grand pianos, set one above the other because that was the only way to get two grand pianos into that place.

Every now and then the lights go down and a dark-haired girl sits at the high piano and a blond young man sits at the low piano, and they play—Gershwin, and Rodgers and Hart, and Kern.

When they play it is the best piano music in our town. When they play, it makes you forget there are saxophones and trombones and clarinets, and that trumpets make music, too. They are Margot and Cy, and the Cloop is their place—a new place, but already a Swing Street salon, where Larry Hart pokes his pixy head through the door twice an evening and Zorina floats in with two lads who buy champagne, and Vivienne Segal saunters up to the piano platform and sings a ditty with a twinkle in her eye. Broadway is in this little candy-cane room. This is a place for the mob.

Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe is a room as loud as a brass band on the Fourth of July. It is all red and white and gilt and satin stripes and scarlet uniforms and plush, and when you walk down the velvet steps into it hits you in the eye and you are supposed to say "wow!"

Here, when the lights go down the music goes up, and they bring out the pretty girls in all the colors of the rainbow and they start singing the old songs that everybody knows. Nostalgia is the star of this show—nostalgia in spangles and rhinestones and plenty of makeup so you won't guess how old she is.

And making them all dance is the little fellow in the rumpled dinner jacket who stands in the back with his head to one side and a slight frown on his brow and a big brown cigar between the first and second fingers of his left hand.

He ordered all the scarlet and gilt and noise and pretty girls; he bought the nostalgia He bought it by the yard, and by the pound, and he sells it by the mile and by the ton.

He is Billy Rose, and he is Broadway.

You don't catch him in Kankakee.

Every night after the curtain goes down on "Lady in The Dark" the young man called Danny Kaye leaves his dressing room and rides up Broadway to 57th St., to the place called La Martinique. There, some time after midnight the rhumba music stops, and the curly haired musicians put down their maracas and guitars.

Danny Kaye comes into the spotlight and performs then. He has a mane of blond hair and hands like Stokowski and eyes that look very blue from a ringside table; when he sings fast songs he has diction like a machine gun.

He croons, and he congas, and does comedy falls; he sneezes like a Russian concert singer and preens like a Russian ballet dancer, and he closes his eyes and wails a soft Irish folksong.

In all the town there is no other hour's entertainment like the one Danny Kaye tosses his customers, and they make him work. They make him sing and clown until his voice is hoarse and there are drops of perspiration spraying from his face when he moves. This is the place to hear loud applause, this is the place to laugh.

You don't get this in Cedar Rapids.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—There's nothing like "crossing the bar" to bring out a script writer's ingenuity or expose his lack of it.

ROBBIN COONS

In movies of city life the bar apparently has to be crossed in every script. The easiest way is to have the character step up and say "Scotch and soda."

If the American whisky people have done any good for themselves, he'll say "bourbon and soda" or plain "whisky and soda." (The latter represents fairly neutral ground.) But the character gets his drink and that's all there is to it.

A common approach is to have the character step up and say "Double Scotch and soda"—usually to indicate that he is flabbergasted, has been disillusioned about his best girl (Henry Fonda in "The Lady Eve") or simply can't take it any longer without inside aid.

Brian Aherne in "The Man Who Lost Himself" plays a non-drinker who has learned he has been double-crossed by a pal. He rushes forthwith to the bar. The usual "Double Scotch" is given this variation: The hero lays his money down, asks how many drinks it will buy, is told six. "Put 'em all in one glass," he orders. He singles out a huge brandy-inhaler (comedy prop), and therefrom proceeds to get spifflicated.

This is a variant (to the student of bar-crossing technique) of another reliable formula, by which the hero orders six to a dozen drinks and has them lined on the bar in front of him. During this procedure the barkeep usually looks nonplussed and shakes his head, which is odd because if he's seen many movies he ought to be used to it.

* * *

In "Arise, My Love," the bar scene was given novelty by Ray Milland's order of champagne with creme de menthe for Claudette Colbert. The script's praise for the drink led a number of movie patrons to try it—and complain. Nobody had tried the mixture before it was "glorified" in the film. Moral: You can't trust movie drinks.

RELIEF COSTS DROP SHARPLY DURING MARCH

Finney Reports $693 Decline In Expenditures; Private Employment Credited.

For the second successive month, relief costs for Mansfield and Richland county in March showed a sharp drop, J. V. Finney, relief director, announced today in his monthly report. The total cost for both areas amounted to $11,038.29, a drop of $693.03 from February costs. In February, relief expenditures dropped $428.71.

Finney attributed the decrease to added private employment due to national defense work. Thirteen cases were closed out during the month bringing the total case load to 480 including 1,518 persons.

In the county, direct and work relief was extended to 176 cases including 655 persons. Twenty-seven cases were added and 31 closed. County relief amounted to $3,132.13 with an additional $489 being paid for medical services for indigent persons.

In Mansfield, relief was extended to 304 cases including 863 persons at a total cost of $4,741.19. An additional $667.66 was paid for medical services for indigent persons.

During March, 71 persons were certified for WPA work. Of the 118 assigned to projects, 39 failed to report, 152 were laid off because of private employment or illness. Approximately 453 persons are employed on WPA projects in the county and 100 awaiting assignment.

The WPA Housekeeping Aid project cared for 118 families of 411 persons. Sixty-five workers spent more than 6,000 hours in the homes of indigent persons and almost 1,000 in training.

The sewing project made 1,833 garments and household items at the estimated cost of $279 and employed 34 persons.

The offices distributed approximately 18 tons of cereal, fruits, flour and other foodstuffs furnished by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, 1,800 dozens of eggs, 668 cans of evaporated milk and 245 cans of grapefruit juice.

SON FINDS HIS MOTHER DEAD

Heart Attack Blamed in Death of Mrs. Emma R. Cunning on Cook Road Farm.

Stricken with a heart attack while she was on an errand in the barn at her home on Cook road, Mrs. Emma R. Cunning, 69, was found dead yesterday by her son, Henry, when he returned from the field.

Finding the breakfast dishes still on the table, the son began a search for his mother. She apparently had been in good health, members of the family said. Coroner L. B. McCullough said death was due to coronary thrombosis.

Mrs. Cunning's death was the second in the family in the past two weeks. Virgil E. Cunning, one of her five sons, died about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Cunning was the widow of Elmer E. Cunning. She was born Aug. 1, 1871 near Perrysville in Ashland county and lived in Mansfield for 35 years. She was a member of the Mt. Zion Lutheran church. Her parents were Lewis and Elizabeth Walter Guthrie and she was the only daughter in a family of nine children.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:15 p. m. Saturday at the Finefrock Funeral home with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery at Perrysville.

Surviving, besides the son Henry are three other sons, John J. Cunning of Akron, Walter Cunning and Elder E. Cunning, both of Mansfield community, and two brothers, John Guthrie of Perrysville and H. F. Guthrie of Galion, and three grandchildren.

APPLE PROMOTION BILL HEADS FOR DIFFICULTIES IN HOUSE

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — A senate-approved bill to create a five-member state commission to "advertise Ohio apples and create a market" through levying a one-cent assessment on every bushel sold appeared today to be heading for trouble in the house.

House leaders expressed surprise on learning that the senate, after prolonged debate, yesterday passed the bill by a vote of 25 to 7.

Senator T. M. Gray, R., Miami, led the attack against the measure, contending that it meant "leaving a tax on Ohio apple growers without their consent."

He said he was "utterly opposed to this type of legislation" and suggested that it may be found unconstitutional."

Senator H. T. Phillips, R., Athens, who said he introduced the bill at the request of apple growers, voiced "surprise at any opposition." Income from the tax would be paid to the commission for use at its discretion to develop a market for Ohio apples.

Senators O. W. Whitney, R., Delaware, and Murray S. Parker, D., Summit, rose to support the bill, the latter suggesting it might be well for the egg and poultry industry to have a similar commission. Parker is a chicken farmer.

Another opponent, Senator Horace S. Keifer, R., Clark, obliged by offering an amendment which would have placed "peaches, pears, eggs, grapes and raspberries" under the commission's jurisdiction.

He said this would forestall introduction of similar measures.

JURY ACTS

Recommends Election Officials Be Barred From Service.

PAULDING — (AP) — In an unprecedented action, the Paulding county grand jury recommended in a resolution today the barring from further election service of 44 officials in 11 precincts where irregularities allegedly occurred in last November's election.

The jury also urged the board of election members and the board clerk submit their resignations.

No further investigation is necessary, said the jurors after a three-day inquiry. Their recommendations were to be forwarded to Secretary of State John Sweeney by Prosecutor Edward W. Kuns, who presented evidence of violations.

HOUSE PASSES 351 MILLION STATE BUDGET

All Amendments Turned Down as Supporters Run Up Vote of 73-54.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio senate today received the $351,867,919 biennial appropriation bill in exactly the same form it was introduced in the house.

The house passed the measure, 73 to 54, yesterday after rejecting every amendment offered. The house Democrats offered an omnibus amendment embracing 11 changes, which would have added $15,000,000 to the bill, but the Republican majority overrode it.

The Democrats sought unsuccessfully to increase the old age pension appropriation $5,000,000 a year and to give the local governments all revenue from the sales tax in excess of $51,000,000 a year. An appropriation already enacted by the legislature gives the cities and counties $12,000,000 a year.

Although the senate intended to adjourn today until Wednesday, the Republican leaders hoped that members of the senate finance committee would go to work immediately on the appropriation bill carrying funds for operation of the state government in 1941-42.

If the measure is hurried through the senate, the legislature may be in a position to end its work by May 2.

Meanwhile, the senate banks and loans committee instructed Senator James Metzenbaum (D.-Cleveland) to rewrite the small loans bill, reducing the maximum interest rate from 3 per cent a month on $300 to 3 per cent on the first $100 and 2½ on the next $200.

The senate judiciary committee killed a bill proposing a maximum fine of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment for anyone conspiring to commit a felony, to profit through a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude or to violate the anti-gambling laws for the purpose of profiting.

The senate decided to adjourn today until next Wednesday, because of Easter and Tuesday's opening of the major league baseball season, and the house was expected to do the same.

House Speaker William M. McCulloch "cracked down" on lobbyists and others permitted in the halls of the house, instructing house employes that no persons except members, house or senate employes and newspapermen be admitted to the floor for today's session.

The speaker's edict was delivered during the roll call on the appropriation bill when many members were called from the floor to the "duck pond" behind the house rail for conferences with outsiders. The resulting confusion made it difficult to hear responses to the roll call.

McCulloch said he would decide next week whether to make the ouster of outsiders permanent.

BILL KILLED

Senate Committee Votes Down Anti-Conspiracy Measure.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — An anti-conspiracy bill endorsed by Cleveland law enforcement officials as an effective weapon against racketeering, was killed last night by the senate judiciary committee.

The measure provided for a maximum sentence of $5,000 fine and three years in prison if two or more persons were found guilty of conspiring "to engage in an enterprise or business in violation of gambling laws," or commit a felony.

The vote was 4 to 3 in favor of indefinitely postponing action on the bill. Senators Horace S. Keifer (R., Clark) and Fred R. Seibert (R., Auglaize) voted against the motion.

RECONSIDERING OF BILL SOUGHT

Move Reported To Re-introduce Measure On Quail Shooting.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A movement is on foot to seek committee reconsideration of the bill to permit shooting of quail in 33 southern Ohio counties beginning in 1943, it was learned today.

The measure was defeated a week ago by the house conservation committee.

A proponent of the bill said the move for reconsideration of the bill may be made shortly.

The Easter egg hunt scheduled for underprivileged children Sunday at 3 p. m. will be held in Middle park instead of Central park as originally planned. The hunt is sponsored by the Volunteers of America.

First grade children from Bushnell school trooped downtown with their teacher, Hazel Manner, today, to buy sundry items ranging from goldfish to flowers and books. Their march from Stuhldreher's florist shop to Ritter's for books was not without notice from spectators for each of the 22 youngsters carried a golden calendula presented by the florist. Money for the shopping expedition was received from the Parent-Teacher association for having the most mothers present at a recent meeting. Books purchased will be placed in the school library, the goldfish will furnish classroom observation and a pot of flowers was purchased for Shirley Ann Best, knocked down by a truck on her way home from school last night.

Ohio Liquor Agent Knifed Following Arrest and Raid

HAMILTON — (UP) — John Wright, 35, state liquor enforcement agent of Jackson, was wounded seriously today in a knife attack that followed a raid conducted with two other officers on a downtown cafe.

According to Agents E. T. Barnhill and Wade Webb, of Cincinnati, the trio visited the place and while Wright waited outside, the other two entered. Making purchases, they arrested Richard Gershan, 48, whom they described as the manager, and placed him in Wright's custody pending filing a charge of selling without a permit.

A few minutes later, they found Wright on the sidewalk, a deep six-inch gash on the left side of his throat. Gershan had fled. Barnhill and Webb reported, but returned a few minutes later and was arrested by Hamilton police. He is held on open charges, pending Wright's anticipated recovery in a Hamilton hospital.

UNION TO MEET

Protest Planned On Closing Of WPA Household Project.

The Richland county chapter of the American Security Union will protest the closing of the WPA household aid project in Mansfield at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at union headquarters, 19½ North Park street, John Sparks, state and county president, said today.

County commissioners, who have sponsored the household aid project, announced recently they will withdraw their support July 1, permitting it to close.

Sparks said the Security Union will ask that women who are not able to obtain private employment be placed at the county WPA sewing center where garments are made for indigent families.

"Hey, what's this? You mean we'll be competing with the Cleveland Indians on our opening day next Tuesday? Just a minute—"

And Coach Paul Snyder's hand grabbed for a telephone. "Hello, long distance. I wanta talk to Coach Mollenkopf at Toledo Waite high school."

(Time elapses.)

"Well, I can't get him now. I'll have to try later."

* * *

The later try proved successful, and Coach Snyder announced today.

THE MANSFIELD-TOLEDO WAITE FOOTBALL GAME WILL BE PLAYED NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON INSTEAD OF TUESDAY.

"We don't want to take all that crowd away from the Indians," grinned the Tyger grid tutor. "And besides, some of the boys wanted to see that Cleveland opener, and with school vacation, why not?"

* * *

What? The Tygers run out of a grid date with Waite? I wouldn'ta thunk they'da done it.

* * *

When Coach John Kerekes of Loudonville high school issued a call for spring football practice he invited 7th and 8th graders to join in the fun.

Sixth graders felt slighted. They signed a petition which, in fewer words, said: "We wanta play."

"Sure you can play," responded Kerekes. That is the most important part of this football game: WANTING to PLAY!"

* * *

Loudonville is counting on another hot bucketball team in a year or two.

They've got, so the word is, a set of 8th grade youngsters who are sharp-shootin' shavers.

In that famous practice game of "21" they trimmed this year's Red Birds so often the Birds were Red for certain. In the face!

The shots go in, but just for fun.

And the Red Birds were embarrassed but seldom during the season when the chips were down, and the shots were for the sure.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Frank Reagan, Penn's great football and baseball player probably kissed $7,500 goodbye yesterday when he enlisted in the U. S. marine corps reserves.

Tygers Tangle With Toledo Waite Grid Eleven Next Monday

Probable Lineup Picked for First Grid Game of Training Season

MANSFIELD HIGH GRIDDERS will make their first public appearance of the spring training season Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock when they tangle with Toledo Waite at Stadium field.

The game, originally scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, was moved up to Monday by agreement of Coach Paul Snyder of the Tygers and Coach Mollenkopf of Waite.

While it will be a regulation tilt, admission will be free because of an Ohio High School Athletic Association ruling which limits spring games to practice affairs.

Coach Snyder has his Tygers well advanced in their training drills after a week and a half of morning sessions, and fans should get a good idea of how they'll look next fall when Mansfield will be represented by a veteran gridiron machine.

However Elroy "Lightnin'" Jones, key-man of the backfield, will not be in uniform for the Waite fray. A knee injured in practice last week will keep the dark dervish of the greensward out of action.

Probable starting lineup for the Tygers was announced by Snyder today as follows: Romano and Winbigler, ends, Butler and Arlin, tackles, Weber and Pecht guards, Dietzel, center, Doolittle, quarterback, Nameth and Krupp, halfbacks, Brandt, fullback.

Likely to see action are: Burrage and Sprecher, ends, Frankel, Birmelin and Van Allen, tackles, Goettles and Ken Smith, guards, Snowden, center, Bill Smith, Sferro, Boyce and Condon, backs.

* * *

At latest reports Snyder was looking around for officials with as much care as he would in selecting whistle wielders for scheduled fall battles.

Tribe-Yanks Rule Favorites

Sport Scribes See Two Clubs In Dead Heat.

NEW YORK —(AP)— To the sports scribes who are accustomed to living out on a limb, the American league pennant race looks like a dead heat between the Cleveland Indians and th New York Yankees.

Seventy-nine of the 88 writers in Major league cities who participated in the annual Associated Press check-up fabbed one or the other of these teams to finish first.

Forty chose Cleveland to come out on top and 39 liked the Yankees, but on the basis of 8 points for first place, 7 for second, 6 for third, etc., New York wound up one point ahead, 612 to 611.

It would only be fair to the average fans around the country to point out that these same experts, when canvassed last spring, voted 66 to 11 that the Yankees would win their fourth straight pennant and even these hardy dissenters could envisage nothing worse than second for the Bronx bombers.

Of the four 'wishful thinkers' who cast their first place glances beyond the Yanks and the Indians, two picked Detroit to repeat, one went for the Chicago White Sox and the other singled out the St. Louis Browns, of all people!

Derringer to Face Red Sox

Clubs Clash In Final Game of Series.

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds today planned to send Paul Derringer against the Boston Red Sox in the deciding game of the spring exhibition series between the two teams.

Ancient Mike Ryba or Herb Hash was due to open for the Red Sox.

The Reds tied the series yesterday at seven-all, winning 9 to 7, with a seven-run uprising in the eighth inning. A crowd of only 1,085 turned out to watch the Reds in their 1941 Crosley Field debut.

The Rhinelanders had their biggest day of the spring exhibition season as they blasted Joe Dobson and Tex Hughson for 12 hits, including a home run by Jimmy Gleeson.

Johnny Vander Meer started for the Reds and proved easy for the American leaguers as they counted all their seven runs in the seven innings he worked. The big blow off Vander Meer was administered by Jimmy Foxx who drove in three runs with one of the longest home runs ever hit at Crosley Field.

The Reds meet the Detroit Tigers at Dayton tomorrow and finish their training season at Cincinnati against the Tigers Saturday and Sunday.

Beak Busting Biz Pays Dividends

NEW YORK —(AP)— The livest looking dead thing around at this writing is the business of bashing beaks.

* * *

They've been saying for years that boxing is dead. Well, with the $52,000-odd gate for the Joe Louis-Tony Musto fuss in St. Louis Tuesday night, the fight game neared the million-and-a-half dollar mark for the nation's major attractions in this indoor season.

* * *

The thousands the armored car took out of St. Louis arena brought the total for promotor Mike Jacobs' productions alone this season over the million-dollar mark. This includes his stopovers in Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis, as well as his own back yard, Madison Square Garden, which is having an indoor campaign paved with gold and demuniscent of Tex Rickard's fabulous heyday.

PROVES SPARKPLUG

GOLDSBORO, N. C. —(AP)— Bill Nagel, whom the Phillies acquired from the Athletics, is proving a sparkplug to Doc Prothro's aggregation. He has provided extra base hits in the last four games, three of them home runs.

New Pilots Face Season

ROGER PECKINPAUGH JIMMY WILSON

Only two new managerial faces in the major leagues this year belong to Roger Peckinpaugh, mentor of the flag-bound Cleveland Indians, and Jimmy Wilson, head man of the Chicago Cubs. Peck is a former manager of the Tribesmen and one of the game's best-known players as a shortstop with Washington and other clubs. Wilson was the hero of the 1940 world series, catching the whole series for the world champion Cincy Reds. Peck succeeds Oscar Vitt, Wilson succeeds Gabby Hartnett.

Belated Bucketball Tilt Booked at Lucas Friday

LUCAS—Some of the boys were whooping it up in the corner store about that last half of the Blue Goose Butler Ex-Hi game played at Madison Hi a few weeks ago when Blue Goose composed mostly of Madison Ex Hi's held the Butler team to a measly 3 points while the Sohioans wore out the strings on the basket.

* * *

Bob Crawford of the championship Lucas team of 39 said that it couldn't happen here and thereby hangs a challenge. It's late in the season said Manager Pete Hergatt of the Sohioans, in fact the season is over. But Crawford insisted that they decide this thing now or never.

* * *

So there you have the makings for a belated bucketball game. As the arrangements for the game developed it was decided that the Championship Lucas Tournament team of 1939 would uphold the Lucas honors.

This team is composed of Crawford, Greulich, Mitchell, Leiter, Oswalt and Franks and they should be able to really turn the heat on the Sohioans.

The Blue Goose team has those former Madison Hi stars the Lockhart Bros., Joe Miller, Bob Wilkins, Kopcial and Bogantz who comes from Springfield township Stichler, Farrell, and Talmadge complete the roster.

To make the card complete the Lucas McCready outfit challenged the Yuncker Sports to a return game so Bob (Dynamite) Boyd will lead the sports in this tray.

* * *

Boyd expects to use the Yuncker lineup that played in the City league. This should make an interesting card for the evening. The games will be played at Lucas for the benefit of the Lucas athletic fund and the time is Friday night at 7:30.

Paul Carbetta Heads Fistic Card of 10 Bouts Next Week

No-Hitters to Hurl Opener

Feller Faces Dietrich at Stadium Tuesday.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A pitching duel between no-hitters Bob Feller and Bill Dietrich looms for the Cleveland-Chicago American league baseball opener here Tuesday.

Feller won 27 and lost 11 for the Indians last season after blanking the White Sox without a hit in the inaugural game at Chicago.

Dietrich registered his no-hitter over the St. Louis Browns in 1937. Last year he won 10 and lost 6, getting one decision in three starts against Cleveland.

* * *

Two former Redskins infielder Bill Knickerbocker and Outfielder Moose Solters, will be in Chicago's starting lineup.

Groundskeepers are putting the finishing touches on the field at the 80,000-seat municipal stadium this week and the usual opening day ceremonies are being arranged.

The Indians will close their exhibition schedule in New York Sunday against the Giants, arriving here Monday for a luncheon honoring members of the club.

Their four-game winning streak snapped by a New York Giant victory at Bluefield, W. Va., the Cleveland Indians called on Jim Bagby to put them back in the victory column at Charleston, W. Va.

The National leaguers triumphed yesterday, 6 to 3, at the expense of Al Smith. The veteran southpaw allowed only six hits in six innings, but three of them were home runs. Harry Eisenstat shut out the Giants with one hit in the final two innings.

* * *

Harry Gumbert and Bob Bowman limited the Tribe to five hits, including a single and double by Rollie Hemsley.

Al Sauer Battles Central Ohio Mitt Champ in Semi-final Bout

PAUL CARBETTA next Thursday night will make his first appearance before home fistic fans since he won the Cleveland Golden Gloves flyweight championship, went to the finals of the mid-west Golden Gloves tourney at Chicago and the quarter-finals of the national amateur tournament.

Mansfield's mighty mite will head a 10-bout amateur card at the armory fighting as a bantamweight.

Booked at 115 pounds, Carbetta will battle Willie Marchall, 114, of Columbus, in the top 5-rounder of the card.

The semi-final 5-round bout will bring together Al Sauer, light heavyweight champion of the recent Marion Golden Gloves tourney, and Charles Hodge, 175, of Columbus.

Three-round bouts billed for the show are: Leonard Waddell vs. Wick Hanna, 118, Columbus; Frank Truly, 135, vs. John Ducey, 137, Columbus; Bob Garber, 147, vs Ray Schaul, Columbus;; Adam Miller, 172, vs. Rudy Hoffman, Columbus; Bob Miller, 143, vs. Warren Strang, 145, Ashland; Frankie Lee, 118, vs. Felix Long, 120, Columbus; Mike Sauer, 137, vs. Bill Halloway, Marion; and Phil Stehle vs. Joe Montagno, 142, Marion.

Carbetta's opponent recently won the state American Legion flyweight championship at Akron, and before moving to Columbus from Chicago he held the Chicago novice flyweight championship of the Tribune Golden Gloves tournament in 1940.

Marchall is a veteran of more than 35 fights, and according to his manager, Ivan Tope, he "will give Carbetta all the fight he wants."

* * *

Charles Hodge, who meets Al Sauer, claims the central Ohio light-heavy championship, and went to the finals of the American Legion tournament at Akron.

Tickets have been placed on sale at Hunt's News, Ritz Nite Club, City News, East Side Nite Club, Corner Lunch, Mansfield Athletic Supply, Whitey Marmet's, Friendly House, and with Jess Willard at Mansfield Tire.

BRUINS TURN LOOSE SPEED ON WINGS

DETROIT —(AP)— The onrushing Boston Bruins, National Hockey league champions, prepared once again to turn loose their speed against the Detroit Red Wings tonight seeking an overwhelming lead in the final Stanley cup playoffs.

Already leading by two games to one in a best-of-seven series, the Bruins were aware of the fact they would face a desperate squad of Rew Wings on Detroit's home ice.

Other Clubs Won't Let Them Forget Revolt.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

JEW YORK — (U.P.) — When the American league pennant race omes up for discussion, the first ing the fan-in-the-stands wants know is, "What about Cleveland . . have the Indians patched up ieir differences . . . and is everyody pulling together on that ub?"

Many critics believe that the ayers' revolt against Oscar Vitt st June cost the Indians the penant. Others, and this group is the minority, believe the Indians layed right up to the limit of ieir capabilities last season. At ast one ex-Indian thinks that the lub even played above its head ecause of the public's reaction to ie rebellion.

"We didn't have a friend in the world last year after it became known that we had asked Mr. Bradley to fire Oscar Vitt," this ex-Clevelander said.

"All our troubles kind of welded s together and we played as good r better than we were capable. Ve might have been opposed to 'itt but once on that ball field we 'ere all pulling together."

As far as outward appearances o the Indians seem to be one big appy family this spring. Roger 'eckinpaugh is largely the cause of he new attitude of the Indians. Ie's a square shooter, talks very ittle and minds his own business. The only way for a Cleveland layer to get into trouble with 'eck is to go looking for it.

When Peck took over the club this spring he is supposed to have laid down only one rule—every player in bed by midnight.

Peck let the Indians play poker, oridge and other card games in Ft. Myers, and he allowed the oys to quench their thirsts up to certain point when Cleveland vent to Havana to play the Dodgers. He is no hard taskmaster ind believes a major league player should be able to take care of himself in a common sense way without having a nursemaid or a stool oigeon in attendance.

There is no doubt but that the Indians' revolt of last season still s on some of the boys' minds. Some of them have been cut deeply by the public as well as the oress campaign against them. Such names as "cry babies," "mutineers" and "double-crossers" still make some of the Tribe wince.

Several American league clubs are not likely to let the Indians forget last year's unhappy episode. The Yankees and White Sox, led by liquid-fire Jimmy Dykes, will give it to the Indians unmercifully all summer.

* * *

The Indians have scattered six players around the American league off last year's club—Johnny Allen to the Browns, Ben Chapman to the Senators, Johnny Humphries to the White Sox and Frankie Pytlak, Joe Dobson and Sammy Hale to the Red Sox. Coach Johnny Bassler of the Vitt regime is now with the Browns. Some of those fellows have no lost love for their ex-comrades. There may be more than a little fun during the season.

OWENS IMPROVED

CHICAGO —(INS)— Clarence "Brick" Owens, former veteran American league umpire, was reported much improved today after being critically ill following a heart attack. Owens was for a time under an oxygen tent, but this now has been removed and he was said to be resting comfortably.

Barons Favored In Titie Tilt

Meet Crippled Bears In Hockey Play-Off Finale.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Barons, fighting for their third title in 12 years of professional hockey here, are favored over a valiant but crippled band of Hershey Bears tonight in the final playoff game for the American league championship.

* * *

Cleveland won the first two games of the series here by scores of 4 to 3 and 3 to 1, and the Bears took the next two on their home ice, 4 to 0 and 4 to 3.

* * *

The final victory in Pennsylvania was a costly one for the Bears as they lost the services of defense man Jack Shewchuk and left winger Gordon Bruce, two of the team's sparkplugs. Shewchuk suffered a skate cut and Bruce a charley horse, thus reducing the Hershey squad to only 12 players.

Cleveland will win if the game runs true to form. The Barons didn't lose to the Bears here all season. Hershey was just as good on its home ice, repulsing every Cleveland attempt at victory.

Cleveland recorded its first title in 1929-30 and its second in 1938-39. Hershey never has won a professional championship.

START PRACTICE

AKRON — (AP) — Spring practice for the Akron Yankees of the Mid-Atlantic baseball league opens today with Manager Ralph (Buzz) Boyle at the reins. Assisting him will be Johnny Haddock, scout for the parent New York Yankees, and Warren Dallas, manager of the Easton club in the Eastern Shore league. At Zanesville approximately 40 rookies report to Manager Jack Warner for initial practice.

Lou Shows Cosmic Punch

Scientific Wallop Has Private Unveiling.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Twenty-eight persons, all of whom came in on Oakleys, assembled in a small, white-washed room to watch Joe Louis take the licking of his life.

* * *

Poor Joe had a terrible time. He didn't throw a punch and he didn't duck a punch. He got knocked out twice in one session and nobody picked him up.

As a matter of fact, nobody could have picked him up, for Joe wasn't there. He was somewhere in the West, blissfully unaware that Lou Nova was giving him the business with his "dynamic cosmic punch" (Pat. Pending).

This was the first demonstration of the new punch that Nova used in knocking out Max Baer the other evening, and the one he hopes will bring him the world heavyweight championship when he gets into the ring with Louis. The blow was invented by Wolstan C. Brown, who made a study of Greek sculpture and athletes down the ages. He decided that they achieved power by keeping their bodies in the shape of a bow with the tips of the bow resting on the base of the brain and the knees. In that way, Mr. Brown explained, they are in position to punch with the weight of gravity instead of against it.

The customers settled into their seats and Mr. Brown squared off against an imaginary Joe Louis in the semi-windup bout. It was plenty short and plenty sweet. Louis went down like a giant redwood under the axe and there wasn't any need for a count.

* * *

The main bout was next and Nova entered the ring wearing gray slacks, a blue-green sports coat, brown shoes and carrying a package that looked like it contained a half-dozen handkerchiefs from a department store. Nova went to his corner, and a discreet inquiry elicited the information that the imaginary Joe Louis had staged an imaginary recovery from the imaginary knockout at the hands of Mr. Brown and was coming back against Nova in the second half of a double header.

* * *

You could see how it was going to be as soon as Nova bent his knees slightly and got into the bow formation. A left hook sent Louis spinning clear back to the wall and a right cooled him. They just let Louis lay.

That was about all except that Mr. Brown showed some motion pictures of other famous athletes who have used the bow formation.

GOAL OF 1,000 PLANE PILOTS MONTHLY NEAR

Four-Fold Increase Is Due For Fiscal Year of 1942.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The army air corps, striving to attain a strength of 16,000 pilots within the next 16 months, estimates that it will fly a total of 5,500,000 hours during the 1942 fiscal year, a four-fold increase over the current year.

Officials said that flying for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, will approximate a total of 1,500,000 hours. The accelerated training rate, plus rapid deliveries of equipment will result in a sharp climb in flying activities, they said.

Authoritative quarters declared the "goal" of training fliers at the rate of 12,000 per year for a projected air force of 25,000 planes should be reached within the next three or four weeks. A plan for ultimately having a 30,000 plane force is under consideration, but details as to how many additional pilots would be trained have not been revealed.

The scope of the increased flying activities was revealed after Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said that flying "safety" had increased "tremendously" since the World war.

He made the statement when asked for comment on the recent wave of fatal crashes. He noted that the rate of deaths had decreased heavily over the past 20 years when compared to the number of hours flown.

The current program envisages a total of 166,000 enlisted men and 16,000 officer-pilots in the air corps by July 1, 1942. Each pilot must have 200 hours of flying before accepted, it was said. Experts estimated that it requires 35 gallons of gasoline hourly to operate an aircraft engine. Thus, they said, each pilot would use a minimum of 7,000 gallons, if he used only a single-engined craft during training.

C. O. D.

SALINAS, Cal. — (UP) — Glen Bales, Postal Telegraph messenger boy, has just learned that "C. O. D." really means "chicken on delivery." He delivered a package in the country on which there was a charge of $1 with the cryptic mark of "C. O. D." The recipient could not quite make up the amount. After some delay in catching the bird, a chicken was turned over to the messenger to make up the balance.

LISTS REASONS FOR DIVORCES

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Dean John G. Hervey of the Temple University Law School says that 71,500 American husbands deserted their wives last year because:

Wives talked too much about their operations.

Came down to braekfast in curlers and negligee.

Told in detail of children's misdeeds.

Tried to keep up with the Joneses.

Were too critical.

Had no sense or humor.

He made these disclosures at a women's club luncheon — among whose members listening was his wife.

MOVIE MANNERISMS LEAD TO UNDOING OF NAZI FUGUTIVE

LONDON — (INS) — Hollywood can now boast of having helped in capturing an escaped German prisoner of war.

Wearing gray flannel trousers, sports jacket, and a check cap, the escaped prisoner boarded a bus traveling between Gainsborough and Sheffield, and asked the conductor for a return ticket to Sheffield.

But on receiving the ticket he forgot himself and clicked his heels and bowed, as so many Hollywood films have portrayed the typical German in uniform.

Conductor Colin Spittle, an ardent film fan, having already been warned that there was an escaped German prisoner at large in the district, immediately recognized the tell-tale mannerisms, and at the next stop informed his driver.

The German prisoner's hours of freedom were numbered.

Apparently taking no further interest in his passengers, and continuing with his job, Spittle took no action until his driver pulled up alongside a patrolling policeman.

At once Spittle jumped down from his bus, and informed the officer of his suspicions, and the man was arrested. He was, as the conductor had suspected, a German, and the escaped prisoner.

Spittle has received a congratulatory letter from the Corporation.

"I knew the heel click and the bow were 'Thank you' in German," he said, "I've seen it so often on the pictures."

The Swiss confederation is based on 3,000 communes (counties) and 27 cantons (states).

TOMMIES PREFER GIRL FRIENDS IN DRESSES INSTEAD OF KHAKI

LONDON—(INS)—Britain's army has fallen out of step with its feminine counterpart—The Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service.

On leave and in their spare time, it appears that British soldiers prefer their girl friends in dresses, not khaki, and are by no means going out of the way to hide their feelings.

And the girls in uniform feel they are suffering a great injustice, considering themselves just as smart as any of the "local girls."

At the present moment the matter rests.

For although they attend the local dances, sports, and are prepared to be friends with the army, it's of no avail—the men in khaki still shun them.

In one big northern command, the women have come to the conclusion that soldiers think the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service is either an old maid's last hope, or that to be seen out with one of them indicates that the soldier has been unsuccessful in getting a girl friend outside the camp.

The soldiers for their part open up admit that they view the W. A. T. S. as merely a part of the army —and treat it accordingly.

On being questioned, a soldier at this northern command said: "We have a great respect for the girls, but they are part of our work, and not of our leisure."

W. A. T. S. Headquarters in London are shocked, for according to their records, there have been hundreds of "all army" marriages.

STAGE PROGRAM

Appleseed Pupils Observing Pan-American Day.

Pupils of seventh grade geography classes at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school were participating in Pan-American Union celebrations today at the school.

A display of South American flags featured today's exercises which were the second of a two-day program. In addition to the flag display there is an exhibit of South American maps and products which will remain on exhibit through Friday.

Dr. Charles L. Shafer yesterday showed pictures of South America at the exercises and pupils of geography classes gave talks and played South American music over the public address system.

Advisors to the geography class group are Miss Edith Beck and John Correll, social science instructors.

National observance of Pan-American day will be April 11.
